Cruikshank, George [1797-1878], Illustrator.

The Comic Blackstone. Part I—Of the Rights of Persons.
London: Published at the Punch Office, 1844. viii, 92 pp. Frontispiece and woodcut title page vignette.

London: Published at the Punch Office, 1846. xii, [93]-252 pp. Woodcut vignettes to title page and p. 252. $950.

Together two volumes. Octavo (6-3/4” x 4”).

Original pictorial wrappers (for first volume only) bound into contemporary signed bindings by Bartlett & Co. Boston, polished green calf with gilt frames to boards, gilt spines with raised bands and lettering pieces, gilt rules to board edges, top-edges of text blocks gilt, marbled endpapers, gilt inside dentelles, green silk ribbon markers. A few minor scratches to boards, very light fading to fore-edge of front board of Volume I, light rubbing to extremities, faint offsetting to free endpapers. Light toning to interior, very light foxing and faint smudges in a few places, light soiling to original wrappers of Volume I, faint offsetting from frontispiece to Volume I title page, faint early ownership signature to head of Volume II half-title. A very attractive copy.

FIRST EDITION of each part with illustrations by George Cruikshank. The classic parody of the Commentaries, it went through numerous English and American editions. Cruikshank was the leading English illustrator and caricaturist of his day. He is best known for work for William Hone and Charles Dickens. “A’Beckett was a barrister at Gray’s Inn; according to a contemporary reviewer in the London Times, ‘Few could have travestied so well the real Blackstone, following it literally step by step’” (Eller).

Eller 185. Laeuchli 429.
2. Adams, Francis [1754-1777].

Counsellor Cozen Consulting Cases.
[London]: Francis Adams, September 1, 1773. $750.

15-1/8” x 11-1/8” hand-colored mezzotint engraving mounted on board, image size, including caption, 14” x 10.” Moderate toning and light soiling, some mat burn to margins, colors vivid.

“[A] LAWYER wearing an absurdly tall wig sits at a table in a book-lined chamber, holding a sheet in one hand and with the other reaching out for a slim purse of coins being held by a countryman, whose boy raises his hands in amazement” (BM Satires). Our copy is not recorded in BM Satires, which lists a nearly identical uncolored version “By B. Breyer Engraver No. 12 Stephen Street Tottenham Court Road.” Adams was an artist and printmaker. It is possible, based on the fact that Adams often published his own work, that the Breyer imprint is a later issue (even though it has the same date as the Adams print).

See BM Satires 4788.

Reports of Cases Argued and Adjudged in the Court of King’s Bench, In the Eleventh and Twelfth Years of the Reign of King George the Second. With Notes and Referenced Down to Michaelmas Term, 31. Geo. 3. And an Appendix Containing Some Additional Cases Not Before Published.

Contemporary calf, raised bands and lettering piece to spine, blind tooling to board edges. Light rubbing and some shallow scuffs to boards, front board separated but secured by cords, chipping to head of spine, corners bumped and lightly worn, light foxing to edges of text block, armorial bookplate (of John Clarke Stoughton) to front pastedown. Light toning to interior, very small faint stains to margins of a few pages, clean tear to fore-edge of leaf Ee3 (°P 343) affecting side-note without loss to legibility, brief annotation to one page of unnumbered table at rear.

SECOND EDITION, one of three Dublin issues identified by the ESTC. Covering the years 1738-1740, this set of reports was, to quote Wallace, “very much esteemed by the profession in general.” Marvin notes that “Andrews has usually given a fuller and more satisfactory report of these cases than is found in reports of the same period.” The first edition was published in London in 1754 and the final edition in London in 1792.

Wallace 440. Marvin 61. ESTC T176096.

Glasgow: Printed by A. Napier, 1812. x, 440 pp. Octavo (8-1/2” x 5”). $450.

Contemporary mottled calf, blind fillets and gilt frames to boards, gilt spine with lettering piece, gilt tooling to board edges. Light rubbing and some nicks, scuffs and scratches to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, front board separated but secured by cords, rear joint starting, chipping to spine ends, light wear to corners, bookplates (of John Lumsdaine, Esq. of Lathallan and Crosby Gaige) to front pastedown and front free endpaper, bookseller’s description laid-in, later bookplate of Thomas M. McDade to verso of front free endpaper. Moderate toning to interior, light foxing and soiling in a few places, early owner signature (“Lumsdaine”) to right-hand margin of p. 1.

Walker 79.
5. Bacon, Sir Francis [1561-1626].

The Elements of the Common Lawes of England, Branched Into a Double Tract: The One Contayning a Collection of Some Principall Rules and Maximes of the Common Law, With Their Latitude and Extent. Explicated for the More Facile Introduction of Such as are Studiously Addicted to that Noble Profession. The Other the Use of the Common Law....

London: Printed by [Robert Young for] the Assignes of I. More Esq., 1630. [xxiv], 104; [8], 84 pp. Two parts, each with separate title page and pagination, second part titled The Use of the Law. Quarto (7” x 5-1/2”). $950.

Contemporary limp vellum with lapped edges, text block detached. Soiling and edgewear to binding, curling, chipping and tears to fore-edges, brief early annotations, mostly illegible, to inside of rear cover, early owner inscriptions (George Butler) to front free endpaper. Moderate toning to interior, light wear to edges of text block, fold lines to corners of several leaves, notable edgewear and a few tears to preliminaries and final leaves, small faint library stamps to title page and rear endleaf, part-erased library markings in pencil to title page of first part and following leaf.

First Edition. Bacon, one of the great intellectuals of his era, held the posts of Solicitor General, Attorney General and Lord Chancellor during the reign of James I. The Elements of the Common Laws of England is the general title for a work that is comprised of two different treatises: A Collection of Some Principall Rules and Maximes of the Common Lawes of England and The Use of the Law, Provided for the Preservation of Our Persons, Goods and Good Names. The first contains a set of twenty-five maxims, or Regulae, one of the earliest, if not the first, collections of maxims on English law. These maxims are remarkable for their stylistic vigor, intellectual rigor, meticulousness and clarity. The Regulae was intended to be the first part of De Regulis Juris, a codification of English law that Bacon never completed. This is quite unfortunate, observes Holdsworth, because “he alone had the philosophical capacity, the historical knowledge and the literary taste needed to select the subject matter and shape the form of the books. (...) [Had he completed the book] there would be many who would question whether, as a lawyer, he was not Coke’s superior.” The second treatise is a review of the history and practical application of criminal law, estate law, personal property law and the law of slander.

As noted in the ESTC, The Use of the Law is probably not by Bacon; it was first printed anonymously as Part II of The Lawyers Light (1629) by Sir John Doddridge. Jefferson held Bacon in high esteem. In a 1789 letter to John Trumbull cited by Sowerby, he said he considered Bacon, Locke and Newton to be “the three greatest men that have ever lived, without any exception.”

6. [Barlow, Thomas (1607-1691)].

A Discourse Concerning the Laws, Ecclesiastical and Civil, Made Against Hereticks, By Popes, Emperors and Kings, Provincial and General Councils, Approved by the Church of Rome: Shewing I. What Protestant Subjects May Expect to Suffer Under a Popish Prince Acting According to Those Laws. II. That No Oath or Promise of Such a Prince Can Give Them Any Just Security That He Will not Execute these Laws Upon Them. With a Preface Against Persecuting and Destroying Hereticks.

[BOUND WITH] An Attorney.

Proposals Humbly Offered to the Parliament for Remedying the Great Charge and Delay of Suits at Law and in Equity.

[AND] [Fobton, John].

Friendly Hints to Young Gentlemen, Who Are or Intend to be Bound by Articles to Attorneys or Solicitors.

A Serious Address to All Gentlemen of the Law, Who Are Zealous for Promoting the Honour of Their Profession.

Six titles in all. Nineteenth-century three-quarter calf over pebbled cloth, girt-edged raised bands and lettering piece to spine (reading: Juridical Tracts 1723-60). Some dampspotting to calf (which looks like intentional motting), light rubbing to extremities with negligible wear to spine ends, joints and corners, armorial bookplate of the Earls of Macclesfield to front pastedown. Light to moderate toning, browning and light foxing in a few places. Occasional annotations to margins of Proposals, markings to a few other leaves elsewhere, interiors otherwise clean. An interesting group.
associated with Great Britain’s transformation into a market society based on overseas trade and colonization. Later editions appeared in 1733, 1735, 1756 and 1765. Proposals was originally published in 1707. It offers reforms to expedite lawsuits, which could go on for decades in eighteenth-century England.

Barlow’s Discourse, first published in 1686, the eve of the Glorious Revolution, is an anti-Jacobite tract. It was republished in 1723 and 1744, the years of two Jacobite threats: the Atterbury Plot and the ill-fated French invasion of 1744. The final three items deal with the legal profession. Friendly Hints and Duty deal with professional conduct. A Serious Address outlines a proposal to establish a fund for widows and children of indigent lawyers. All editions of Bankrupts are scarce, as are copies of Friendly Hints, Observations and a Serious Address.

7. Bell, Robert [c.1760-1816].

Report of a Case of Legitimacy, Under a Putative Marriage, Tried Before the Second Division of the Court of Session in February 1811.

Later cloth, lettering piece and blind fillets to spine, endpapers renewed, deckle fore and bottom-edges. Moderate toning to interior, light foxing and dampspotting in places, library stamp to title page and a few other leaves.

ONLY EDITION. A study of Brymar v. Riddell, an unusual Scottish case. While underage, an heiress entered a clandestine marriage. Years later, she married again to an unknowing second husband. After the discovery of the first marriage the sole child from the second faced charges of illegitimacy. Bell’s account provides lengthy excerpts from the arguments of counsel, including that of Francis Jeffrey.

Sweet & Maxwell 5:23.

London: Printed for W. Strahan; T. Cadell, In the Strand; And D. Prince, At Oxford, 1774. Four volumes. Table of Consanguinity and folding Table of Descents in Volume II. Quarto (11” x 8-1/2”).

Nineteenth-century speckled calf, rebanned in period style, gilt fillets to boards, raised bands, gilt ornaments and lettering pieces to spines, hinges mended, ribbon markers. Light rubbing and some minor scuffs and scratches to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, corners bumped and somewhat worn, contemporary armorial bookplates (of Harrington Hulton) to front pastedown of each volume. Light toning to text, light foxing to a few leaves in each volume, later owner annotations to front pastedown and free endpaper of Volume I. A very attractive set.

SIXTH EDITION and the first edition published in London. The most influential publication in the history of modern Anglo-American law, the Commentaries on the Laws of England is based on a course of lectures delivered at Oxford University. Because they were not intended for aspiring practitioners, they described general principles rather than practical specifics. Sensitive to the systematizing trends of the day and the prestige of the natural sciences, it described the common law as an intricate, well-designed system akin to Newton's mechanistic universe. It was also an important account of the law's evolution. As Holdsworth notes, "the Commentaries are not only a statement of the law of Blackstone's day, but the best history of English law as a whole which had yet appeared...The skillful manner in which Blackstone uses his authorities new and old, and the analogy of other systems of law, to illustrate the evolution of the law of his day, had a vast influence, both in England and America, in implanting in the profession a sound tradition of the historical development of the law."

The Great Charter and Charter of the Forest, With Other Authentic Instruments: To Which is Prefixed an Introductory Discourse, Containing the History of the Charters.
Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1759. [iv], lxxvi, [iv], 86 pp. As in many copies, half-title and table of contents (Tabula) are bound between pp. lxxvi and i. Copperplate engraved dedication leaf, initials and tail-pieces. Quarto (13-1/2” x10-1/4”).

Contemporary diced calf, gilt fillets to boards, rebanned retaining existing gilt spine with lettering piece, gilt tooling to board edges, gilt inside dentelles, marbled edges and endpapers. Negligible light rubbing and a few nicks and scuffs to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, bookplate residue to front pastedown, early bookplate (“RW” monogram) to verso of front free endpaper. Light toning, light soiling and foxing to a few leaves, occasional light offsetting from engravings. A very desirable wide-margined copy.

FIRST EDITION of the first modern critical edition of Magna Carta. Blackstone's first important work, it contains the Articles of the Barons, the issues of the Great Charter in 1215, 1216 and 1217, with several charters of confirmation, the Charter of the Forest, and the Statute of Marlebridge. The introduction is in English and the texts of the Magna Carta and Carta de Foresta in Latin. Blackstone’s essay, which is based on a great deal of original research, argued that the charter was the foundation of English liberties. This idea, first proposed by Coke, was a central tenet of Whig ideology. More important, Blackstone’s research into the original texts demonstrated that all earlier editions of the charter were based on the significantly different reissue of 1225, in the reign of Henry III, rather than the original one endorsed at Runnymede. His philological approach was highly influential; it established the textual focus that has governed subsequent study of the charter.

This edition is esteemed for its handsome appearance, which was recognized as early as 1829 in Richard Thompson’s An Historical Essay on the Magna Charta of King John, which described it as a “beautiful and rare edition” and noted that the “elegance of typography is very great.” The engraved dedication to the Earl of Westmoreland is surmounted with his armorial ensigns; engraved historiated initials in the text depict views of buildings at Oxford University. The tail-pieces on pages lxxvi and 73 are historical vignettes; the other ten engraved tail-pieces reproduce the royal seals attached to the original documents.

10. [Board of Customs].

[Collection of Orders Relating to Commerce and Trade Issued by the Board of Customs, Treasury, Privy Council and Queen].

Contemporary three-quarter vellum over plain paper-covered boards, early hand-lettered title to spine, edges of bound-in sheets untrimmed. Light soiling to exterior, vellum starting to crack through paper, corners bumped and worn, front hinge split causing front board and spine to separate from text block, rear hinge just starting. Most items printed on blue paper and docketed “On the Service of the Customs/ Collector and Comptroller/ at [blank]” in print, some dockets completed “Hull” in ink. Light toning to interior, light soiling to edges, single hole through each item near top (from prior posting?) affecting text, legibility slightly impacted in places, occasional light foxing, a few partial cracks to text block, a few items loosening but secure, early manuscript notes, signatures and/or corrections to many items, some with postmarks or manuscript dockets.

This impressive compilation of orders, notices and related material provides a highly detailed look at the daily operations of Great Britain’s commercial affairs at the beginning of the height of the British Empire. Likely compiled by a customs officer, perhaps working out of Hull, the collection emphasizes the breadth of the matters that fell under the purview of the Board of Customs during this period, such as fishing, smuggling, preventing the spread of plague and even copyright and its relation to assessed duties. It also illustrates the vast changes the Customs department underwent as trade rapidly liberalized under Peel and his successors and its volume increased with the growth of the empire. Many of the orders in this volume are apparently unrecorded, with no copies located on OCLC or Library Hub.

PRINTING AND THE MIND OF MAN 89: THE FIRST TREATISE ON ENGLISH LAW

11. Bracton, Henry de [d. 1268].

Nineteenth-century diced calf, gilt rules to boards, gilt fillets, ornaments and title to spine, gilt rules to board edges, gilt inside rules, marbled endpapers, ribbon marker. Light rubbing to boards, faint dampstain to front board, moderate rubbing to extremities, front joint just starting at head, corners bumped and somewhat worn, armorial bookplate (ExLibris Munden) to front pastedown. Attractive large woodcut decorated initials. Light toning to text, somewhat heavier in places, light foxing and finger smudges to some leaves, some fading to text of ff. 1 and 2. A handsome copy of a landmark work.

FIRST EDITION. Written between 1250 and 1256, De Legibus et Consuetudinibus Angliae [The Laws and Customs of England] is the first treatise on English law. A systematic work, it emphasizes the separation of procedural and substantive matters and also cites cases as sources of at least intellectual, if not formal, authority. The principles formulated in this work, including mens rea (criminal intent), and its use of precedents determined the development of English law and established the method adopted by Littleton and Coke. In Maitland’s words, it is “the crown and flower of English medieval jurisprudence” and “by far the greatest of our medieval law books.”

Maitland II:43. Beale T323. PMM 89. ESTC S122159. STC (2nd ed.) 3475.
AN ACCOUNT of “four unfortunate creatures” who were “ordered for execution, three for the unpardonable crime of forgery, and of them, shocking to relate, two are young women, and the fourth for burglary and cruel treatment to an old woman.” An account of their crimes is followed by an approving description of their final days: “Since the order for their execution arrived, their behaviour has been truly penitent, they attended the condemned Sermon of Sunday last, and seemed deeply impressed with their awful situation.” The final paragraph reprints the text of a deeply remorseful “Copy of a Letter” from one of the women (it isn’t signed) to her mother. It ends with a plea: “[T]ell my dear brothers and sisters that my dying request is, that they will take warning from my untimely end, and reverence the Sabbath, which I have neglected; pray to God that he may be my support and comfort in the hour of death; and that he may be yours is the earnest prayer of your wretched daughter.”

This broadside is rare and appears to be unrecorded. No copies located on OCLC or Library Hub.
This broadside records an especially brutal example of an acquaintance rape that ended in murder, and possibly necrophilia. When Brooke, 56, a widow and schoolteacher, resisted Beaumont, 23, a laborer, he beat her and proceeded to rape her. It is unclear whether she died during or shortly after the assault. According to the broadside, a neighbor, who was alerted by “the mournful groan of a woman,” came to the scene, where he found Beaumont “in a very improper situation upon the body of the deceased. (Any further particulars for delicacy’s sake, we have thought it necessary and proper to omit.)” The broadside’s title is misleading. It is essentially a narrative of the murder with a brief account of the trial and execution. It does not have a “speech,” “confession” or “last dying words.”

This broadside is rare and appears to be unrecorded. No copies located on OCLC or Library Hub.

Greers, Robert.

Trials and Execution of John and Robert Greers, Two Brothers, For the Murder of Their Father.
[London]: Catnach, Printer, 2, Monmouth Court, 7 Dials, [c.1800]. $2,000.

14” x 10” broadside, on thin paper, mounted on 16” x 12-1/2” board, text in two columns below woodcut vignette of execution and headline, five stanzas of verse at end of second column, untrimmed edges. Moderate toning, light soiling, several light creases, a few small faint stains to margins.

THIS BROADSIDE says nothing about the circumstances of the crime. It describes the behavior of the two brothers on the day of their execution. Robert was penitent, John defiant. When “solemnly exhorted to declare their guilt” after the nooses were placed around their necks, John said “I forgive my persecutors, prosecutors, and all my enemies, and I hope God will forgive them as I do.' Robert prayed aloud to the Almighty to enable him, in these last moments, to tell the truth, and then addressing himself to those around him, said, ‘I am a guilty sinner, and suffer justly and lawfully;’ then turning to his brother said, ‘John, will you not confess?’ to this appeal John made no reply, when a person present said, ‘John, do you hear what your brother Robert says?’ to which he replied, ‘I have done,’ meaning he would not again speak. The cart was now drawn away, and they were launched into eternity.”

An Account of the Trial and Execution of John Smith, Who Suffered the Severe Sentence of the Law at Fisherton Anger, Near Salisbury, Wilts, On Tuesday Last for the Wilful Murder! Of Eleanor Lawrence, At Collingbourn Ducis.
Salisbury: Printed for the Vendors, [1849]. $1,800.

19-3/4” x 7-1/2” broadside, text in single column below headline and woodcut of gallows flanked by two small woodcut portraits. Moderate toning, horizontal and vertical fold lines, light soiling at top and bottom edges. Rare.

SMITH, “a wretched-looking object,” beat Eleanor Lawrence to death and was arrested after assaulting several others. He put up an insanity defense at trial, which was unsuccessful; the jury convicted him of murder and he was executed on March 27, 1849.

[Eight Broadsides Dealing with Bankruptcy Reform].
4 broadsides, 2 broadsheets and 2 pamphlets averaging 12-3/4” x 7-3/4” in size, print docket to verso of each item. Disbound, light to moderate toning, faint horizontal fold lines, recent pencil notes to upper right corners of first pages, leaves of pamphlets separating, light foxing to a few items. Housed in recent 13-3/4” x 9-1/4” buckram folder with morocco lettering piece. $3,500.

These 8 items, all rare, relate to bankruptcy reform in Great Britain. Contents (in short-titles):

4. The Case of the Poor Confined Debtors Within the Several Prisons of this Kingdom. [London: s.n., 1718?]. 1 pp.

By 1718, the bankruptcy statute passed under Queen Anne that imposed the death penalty on absconding bankrupts had expired, and many creditors and commentators began to object to the subsequent increase in fraud. These items call for a reinstatement of laws against bankruptcy fraud and highlight the consequences of allowing the laws to continue to lapse. One broadside goes so far as to name “several notorious instances” of absconding bankrupts, while others call for additional incentives for traders to behave honestly. Ultimately, the reforms called for would pass in the Bankrupts Act of 1718, which re-imposed capital punishment for absconding or fraudulent bankrupts and protected certain other bankrupts from imprisonment.

[Logan, Robert (1863-1935)].

[British Military Occupation of Samoa: Proclamations 1-40, 42-43].
[Apia, Western Samoa: S.n., 1914-1917].

43 broadsides and broadsheets (Proclamation No. 40 present in duplicate) ranging in size from 12-3/4" x 9-1/4" to 17" x 10-3/4" (folded, 17" x 22" unfolded), text in English, Samoan and German with some broadsides printed in all three languages. Light toning, horizontal fold lines to most items, light edgewear and soiling to a few items, holes and small tears along fold line to Proclamation No. 15 affecting text with minor loss to legibility, small ink stamp to upper right corner of second copy of Proclamation No. 40.

A collection of 42 proclamations issued during the British military occupation of German Samoa during World War I, most signed in type by Colonel Robert Logan in his capacity as the military administrator of the colony. New Zealand’s Samoa Expeditionary Force landed in August of 1914 and the colony remained under military administration until 1919. This was New Zealand’s first military action in World War I; Samoa would remain under New Zealand’s governance until independence in 1962. The proclamations deal with a wide range of matters, including the announcement of the occupation, restrictions on imports and exports, the supply of liquor to Samoan natives, the administration of local legal institutions and the treatment of Chinese indentured laborers.

These broadsides are rare, with OCLC generally locating fewer than 5 copies worldwide and no copies of any in North America.

Contemporary calf, blind rules to boards, raised bands and fragment of paper title label to spine, gilt tooling to board edges, a few minor nicks and scratches to boards, light rubbing to extremities, wear to head of spine, joints starting, corners bumped and somewhat worn, front hinge starting, interior notably fresh. A handsome copy.

FIRST EDITION. This is the first English treatise on the subject and the first copy of this edition we have seen in 40 years. Its twenty comprehensive chapters consist of a digest of the case law relating to each topic with explanatory comments. Holdsworth notes that “[i]t was a useful book to practitioners since it covers all the topics connected with its subject.” A third edition was published in 1726. All editions are scarce.

Staunton, Sir George Thomas [1781-1859], Editor and Translator.

Ta Tsing Leu Lee; Being the Fundamental Laws, And a Selection from the Supplementary Statutes, Of the Penal Code of China; Originally Printed and Published in Pekin, In Various Successive Editions, Under the Sanction, And by the Authority, Of the Several Emperors of the Ta Tsing, Or Present Dynasty. Translated from the Chinese; And Accompanied with an Appendix, Consisting of Authentic Documents, And a Few Occasional Notes, Illustrative of the Subject of the Work.

Later buckram, “Foreign Office” stamp to boards, gilt title and paper shelf label to spine, cloth hinges, endpapers renewed, edges speckled red. Light rubbing to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, spine ends bumped and chipping, joints just starting at ends, corners bumped, bookplate of the Foreign Office Library with “Withdrawn from the FCO Library” ink stamp to front pastedown, ink annotation (shelfmark?) to front free endpaper. Moderate toning to interior, occasional light foxing and faint dampstaining to lower corner, minor worming to edges of first and last few leaves not affecting text or image, frontispiece and title page remounted, ink annotation (“HM’s Consulate Taiwan”) to head of title page, crease to leaf E2 (pp. 27-28) affecting text without loss, tear to lower gutter of leaf Gg1 (pp. 225-226) and upper corner and fore-edge of final leaf mended with cellotape.

ONLY EDITION. Staunton, the son of a diplomat, learned Chinese at a young age and was among the first prominent Anglo-Americans to publicly master the language. His English translation of selections from the Great Qing Legal Code spanned constitutional, civil and penal law and was the first direct English translation of a Chinese text. Viewed as “a watershed in modern Sinology,” the impact of the translation was immediate and immense, lending Westerners “the requisite authority and credibility to classify Chinese law and civilization” according to and in contrast with Western institutions and cultural practices (Chen). Our copy, formerly the property of the British consulate in Taiwan, demonstrates the work’s utility. Based on its success, Staunton went on to an extensive career as a colonial administrator, diplomat and MP, and is considered the founder of Anglo-American Sinology and one of the leading modern Orientalists. French and Italian translations of his work were published in 1812 and a Spanish translation in 1864.

FINAL REVISIONS TO THE 39 ARTICLES

22. [Church of England].

Liber Quorundam Canonum Disciplinae Ecclesiae Anglicaee. Anno 1571.

Recent three-quarter calf over marbled boards, blind fillets to boards, gilt title, gilt publication date and blind fillets to spine, endpapers renewed. Moderate toning to interior, faint dampstaining to several leaves, mostly to margins, cancel slip partially detached but secure.

FIRST LATIN PRINTING. The Liber Quorundam of 1571 was the final set of revisions to the 39 Articles of Religion, the doctrinal foundation of the Church of England, U.S. Episcopal Church and the Anglican Church in North America, as well as congregations in the Anglican Communion. and Anglican Continuum. Formulated as 10 articles in 1536, this body of laws attained its final form in 1571 under the direction of Queen Elizabeth. The Liber Quorundam concerns Articles 3 (De Episcopis), 5 (De Decanis Ecclesiarum), 8 (De Archidiaconis), 9 (De Cancellariis. &c.), 14 (De Aedituis Ecclesiarum), 19 (De Concistoribus), 20 (De Residentia), 21 (De Pluralitatibus, De Ludimagistris) and 22 (De Patronis, &c.).

The ESTC records three variants of the 1571 issue. They are distinguished by the penultimate paragraph of leaf G3r (p. 21), which is the revised Article 21. Variant 1 is uncorrected. In Variant 2, our copy, the text is covered with a cancel slip adding additional content. Variant 3 has a corrected text. Not in Beale.

23. [Cock, Charles George].

Recent period-style calf, blind rules to boards, raised bands, blind fillets and lettering piece to spine, edges rouged, endpapers renewed. Moderate toning to interior, light browning to edges of text block, light foxing in places, moderate edgewear to preliminaries and final few leaves. Recent owner inscription to front free endpaper, early owner annotations to title page and a few other leaves, faint, often very faint, recent marks in pencil and colored pencil to margins of several leaves.

ONLY EDITION. Cock’s treatise is a characteristic and exceptionally detailed exposition of an important strain of Puritan thought during the Commonwealth era: that English law and government should be reformed along biblical lines, a belief shared by the New England Puritans. This core of the book’s argument is encapsulated by its title vignette of a ship, representing the Commonwealth, in a storm-tossed sea. It will be saved because it has cast off the anchor decorated with crowns and scepters, that is, monarchy, and fastened itself to an anchor secured by the clouds with the caption “only by faith.”

This is a scarce title. It has appeared only three times at auction since 1939. The early annotations, in Latin and English, are quotations from Lucius, Plato and the Bible. (One quote, which we can’t identify, appears to be a paraphrase of Proverbs 13.) Combined, the ESTC and OCLC locate 16 copies, 8 in North America, 4 in North American law libraries (Columbia, Georgetown, Harvard, UC-Berkeley).

Parts 1-4 (of 11) in one volume:

2. Thomas Wight, [c.1604]. [vi], 94 ff.
4. Thomas Wight, 1604. [x], 128 ff.

Folio (10-3/4” x 7-1/4”). Contemporary calf with later rebacking, blind rules and fillets to boards, raised bands, black-ruled fillets and black-stamped title to spine, corners mended. Some scratches and shallow scuffing to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, corners bumped, pastedowns loose. Moderate toning to interior, faint dampstaining and dampspotting in a few places, gradually diminishing worm-track to gutter of Fols. 80-128 of the fourth part, moderate soiling, edgewear to endleaves, preliminaries of first part and final leaves of fourth part, brief early annotations to a few leaves in each part, some affected by trimming, inkstains to a few leaves, including title page of the fourth part, three early struck-through signatures to title page of first part, a small piece near its top-edge removed.

SECOND EDITIONS. A work of immense authority for generations, Coke’s Reports are not reports in the conventional sense; they are highly detailed anthologies of precedents organized by topic. Taken together, the Reports form the most extensive and detailed treatment of common law pleading that had yet appeared. The first editions, all in Law-French, were first published in 1600, 1602, 1602, 1604, 1605, 1607, 1608, 1611, 1613, 1614, 1615. After Coke’s death editors compiled a “General Table” to Parts 1-11, which was first published in 1652, and two more parts, which were first published in 1656 and 1659. The first edition in English, which did not include pleadings, was published in 1658. The annotations in this volume are glosses of the cases and cross-references.

The Reports of Several Cases Argued and Adjudged in the Court of King’s Bench at Westminster; From the First Year of King James the Second, To the Tenth Year of King William the Third. Collected by Roger Comberbach Esq; Late Recorder of Chester, And One of the Justices of North-Wales. Published by His Son Roger Comberbach of the Inner-Temple Esq;.

Contemporary calf, gilt rules to boards, raised bands, gilt rules, lettering piece and two small early shelf labels to spine, gilt tooling to board edges. Light rubbing and a few shallow scuffs to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, corners bumped and lightly worn, joints just starting at ends, hinges cracked, early manuscript shelfmark and armorial bookplate of the Earls of Macclesfield to front pastedown, early manuscript shelfmark to rear pastedown, small embossed Macclesfield crest to preliminaries. Light toning to interior, light browning, offsetting and dampstaining to endleaves, minor worming near bottom edges of final eleven leaves and rear pastedown, text not affected.

ONLY EDITION, one of two issues from 1724. A set of reports from 1685 to 1699. Wallace says this reporter is not held in high regard, but holds, citing an English critic, that a few of its cases are “better reported than in any other book.” Short notes of two Chancery cases are reported on p. 67. Wallace calls attention to “an amusing case of an action for assault, battery, and false imprisonment” involving a mother and her daughter on p. 357. Our copy of this title belonged to the Earls of Macclesfield. Housed in Shirburn Castle, near Watlington, Oxfordshire, theirs was one of the finest private libraries in Great Britain.

THE FINAL EDITION OF COWELL’S INTERPRETER

26. Cowell[1], John [1554-1611].

A Law Dictionary: Or the Interpreter of Words and Terms, Used Either in the Common or Statute Laws of Great Britain, And In Tenures and Jocular Customs: First Published by the Learned Dr. Cowel, And in This Edition Very Much Augmented and Improved, By the Addition of Many Thousand Words, Found in Our Histories, Antiquities, Cartularies, Rolls, Registers, And Other Manuscript Records. With An Appendix, Containing Two Tables; One of the Antient Names of Places in Great Britain, And the Other of the Antient Surnames.

Recent period-style morocco over marbled boards, raised bands and lettering piece to spine, endpapers renewed. Negligible toning to interior, very faint dampstaining to fore-edges of a few leaves, light soiling to title page, worm hole to its lower-outside corner and those of following two leaves. A handsome copy with a notably fresh interior.

EIGHTH AND FINAL EDITION, with an excellent preface by its anonymous editor that discusses the dictionary’s colorful history. The Interpreter was the standard law dictionary until Jacob’s A New Law-Dictionary (1729). However, its publication in 1607 provoked intense controversy. At a time when Parliament and James I were vying for power, the House of Commons was angered by Cowell’s royalist sympathies, which were evident in such definitions as “King,” “Parliament,” “Prerogative,” “Recoveries,” and “Subsidies.” When a joint committee of Lords and Councilors reviewed the work, the ensuing controversy nearly halted the affairs of government. The king intervened in fear that his own fiscal interests would not be approved by Parliament, and ordered a proclamation that imprisoned Cowell, suppressed the book and ordered all copies burned by a public hangman on March 10, 1610. It remained in use, however, and it went through several editions. Later editions, such as this one, are valuable references for scholars of early English legal texts.

Star-Chamber Cases. Shewing What Causes Properly Belong to the Cognizance of That Court. Collected for the Most Part Out of Mr. Crompton, His Booke, Entituled The Jurisdiction of Divers Courts.

Disbound stab-stitched pamphlet, spine reinforced. Light browning, trimming to headline with minor loss to first line of title and some page numbers with no loss to legibility, small chips and clean tears to edges of a few leaves, lower-outside corner of title page lacking, early annotations to title page and final blank leaf.

FIRST EDITION. The Court of Star Chamber was established by the Crown in 1487 to try offences dealing with the safety of the state before a council. Its scope expanded over time to include a wider array of criminal matters and a limited number of civil matters, such as suits between corporations and prize cases. In its final years the court was infamous for its cruelty, arbitrary nature and illegal extensions of power. It was abolished in 1641. Crompton’s L’Authoritie et Jurisdiction des Courts de la Maiestie de la Roygne (1594) is perhaps the best source we have about the court system of his day. Star-Chamber Cases was derived from this treatise. Holdsworth points out, “it is the book of a common lawyer to whom details as to the procedure and the jurisdiction of the court are more interesting than large questions as to its position in the state, or its legal title to exercise jurisdiction.” Despite its “somewhat haphazard organization, “it is a useful collection of concrete facts and instances put together...from statutes, abridgments, year books, law reports, books of entries, legal test books, chronicles, and his own experiences.” A second edition was published in 1641, the year the court was abolished.

Very light soiling to boards, light rubbing to spine ends and corners, light fading to spine, library bookplate and small stickers to front pastedown. Light toning to interior, occasional light foxing, somewhat heavier to first few leaves, half-title reinforced at gutter, ink library stamps to half-title, title page and a few other pages, pencil underlining and marginal marks to a few leaves.

ONLY EDITION. This is the only work on the buying or selling of ecclesiastical privileges under English law. It provides a detailed review of its criminal nature and its association with perjury. According to Holdsworth, it is “an intelligent summary of the case law and statutes on the subject. The interest caused by the famous case of the Bishop of London v. Fytche, of which the author gives a very elaborate account, was the reason why he wrote the book.”

Now the Sixth Time Published, Revised, In Many Things Corrected, And Much Inlarged.

Recent period-style quarter calf over marbled boards, raised bands and gilt fillets, title and publication date to spine, endpapers renewed. Light rubbing to extremities, a few tiny spots to spine. Moderate toning to interior, spark burns and faint stains to a few leaves, headlines, side-notes and catch-words affected in a few places by trimming, moderate edgewear to title page.

SIXTH EDITION, one of three issues, the others two from 1635. This venerable justice of the peace manual went through some twenty editions between 1618 and 1746. This work is also significant because it firmly established the alphabetical topical structure adopted in later texts. Rooted in Crompton, Fitzherbert and Lambard, The Countrey Justice offers advice on such matters as buggery, customs, riots, murder, felonies, rogues, vagabonds and high treason.

“A PEEP INTO THE COURT OF KINGS BENCH”

31. Dighton, Robert (Senior) [1752-1814].

Term Time or The Lawyers All Alive in Westminster Hall.

[London, 1795].

Glazed and matted 13-3/8” x 9-7/8” watercolor and pen and black ink on laid paper, signed, numbered and captioned on bottom margin, in handsome 24” x 18-1/4” frame with a few minor nicks and scratches.

A SUPERB WATERCOLOR satirizing lawyers, judges and juries. “Three judges preside over lawyers who jabber among themselves. No interest is taken in clients and it is impossible to say if one is actually present, although the crestfallen man holding a hat, on the right of the picture, could be a plaintiff. Meanwhile the jury of five men sit in their box exhibiting at least one deficiency each: they appear to be individually deaf, blind, asleep, dumb and sick in the head” (Padbury). The piece is numbered 557 and captioned, after the title, with a strike-through: “A Peep into the Court of Kings Bench.” Robert Dighton was a portrait painter, printmaker and caricaturist known for his satirical views of elite Londoners. Three of his children and two of his grandchildren followed in his footsteps. This watercolor was part of the collection of David Edward Padbury, an authority on the work of the Dightons.

A Compleat Parson: Or, A Description of Advowsons, Or Church-Living. Wherein is Set Forth, The Interests of the Parson, Patron, And Ordinarie, &c. With Many Other Things Concerning the Same Matter, As They Were Delivered at Severall Readings at New-Inne, by I. Doderidge, Anno, 1602, 1603. And Now Published for a Common Good, By W.I.

The English Lawyer. Describing a Method for the Managing of the Lawes of This Land. And Expressing the Best Qualities Requisite in the Student Practizer Judges and Fathers of the Same.

Contemporary calf, central gilt arms to boards, gilt library name to front board, rebacked and recornered with blind fillets and gilt title, author name and date to spine, endleaves renewed. Light rubbing and some shallow scratches to boards, front board separating at ends but secure, moderate rubbing to extremities, somewhat heavier to front joint, corners bumped, rear hinge starting. Moderate toning to interior, occasional light foxing, light soiling and faint dampstaining in a few places, ink library stamps to first two title pages and a few other leaves, struck-through owner signature (Roger Comberbach) and illegible owner signature to title page of third work.

HISTORY AND COMPLEAT PARSON: first editions; English Lawyer: only edition. Sir John Doddridge, or Dodderidge, a judge of King's Bench, was a formidably learned jurist who was both a common lawyer and a civilian who held a D.C.L. from Cambridge. His work is held in high esteem by Holdsworth. The History was written during the early part of the reign of James I to urge the revival of Wales as a principality. A second edition was published in 1714. A Compleat Parson is based on a series of lectures on ecclesiastical law delivered at New-Inn. It is a work on advowson, which is the right to appoint or nominate a person to a vacant church benefice. A second edition was published in 1641. The English Lawyer is the work for which Doddridge is best known. Intended to advise law students, this notable book offers insight into the qualities of a good lawyer and the fundamental nature of law.

AN ATTRACTIVE COLLECTION OF LEGAL TRACTS

33. Dyer, Sir James [1512-1582].
Brograve, Sir John [d.1613].
Risden, Thomas.

[BOUND WITH] Coke, Sir Edward [1552-1634].
A Little Treatise of Baile and Maineprize.

[AND] Bacon, Sir Francis [1561-1626].
Cases of Treason.

[AND] [Real Property].
A Briefe Declaration for What Manner of Speciall Nusance Concerning Private Dwelling Houses, A Man May Have His Remedy by Assise, Or Other Action as the Case Requires. Unfolded in the Arguments, And Opinions of Foure Famous Sages of the Common Law....

Quarto (7” x 5”). Contemporary speckled calf, blind rules to boards and board edges, blind fillets to spine. Very light rubbing to boards, which are slightly bowed, and board edges, moderate rubbing to joints, which are starting slightly at ends, minor crack across foot of spine, corners just bumped and lightly worn, hinges cracked, front pastedown loosening. Moderate toning to interior, light foxing and soiling in a few places, a few partial cracks to text block, all leaves secure, folded corners and small tears to edges of a few leaves not affecting text, fore and bottom edges of A Little Treatise untrimmed, brief later pencil annotation to p. 5 of first work. Later (c.1741) ink and pencil annotations to endleaves with later pencil annotation to p. 5 of first work, circular ink stamp (Cornwell House) of Francis Penyston to front endleaf. An appealing volume with an interesting provenance.

ONLY EDITIONS. A group of important treatises on a range of topics in the common law, including Coke’s overview of the law of bail and Bacon on treason, felony and the king’s prerogative. The first work focuses on property law, including Dyer on land inheritance, Brograve on jointures and Risden on landlord and tenant and forcible entry. The final work deals with public nuisance law. It also summarizes the 1633 assizes resolutions on the Elizabethan poor law.

This volume was owned by the Reverend Dr. Francis Astrey [1676-1766], an honorary canon and treasurer of St. Paul’s Cathedral, and given to his cousin Francis Penyston in 1741. Astrey was active as a royal commissioner for his local community and would have found the works in this volume useful for their discussion of real property and the poor laws.

Imprisonment for Debt Unconstitutional and Oppressive, Proved from the Fundamental Principles of the British Constitution, And the Rights of Nature.
London: Printed for the Author and Sold by T. Hookham, 1788. [iii], 160 pp. Octavo (8” x 5-1/4”).

FIRST EDITION. Written at a time when many were beginning to call for reforms to the criminal justice system in Britain, this work presents a constitutional argument against the “great national evil” of imprisonment for debt, citing Magna Carta, Coke, Britton and Glanville, among others. It also criticizes the role of lawyers in this injustice, “who have done more harm to this country than the plague, the pestilence, or the sword of tyrants.” A second edition was published in 1795.

Reports of Cases Decreed in the High Court of Chancery, During the Time Sir Heneage Finch, Afterwards Earl of Nottingham, Was Lord Chancellor. In Many of Which Decrees He was Assisted by Some of the Judges of the Common Law. All which Cases are Truly Stated upon the Pleadings, And the Arguments on Each Side Clearly Reported…. [London]: Printed by E. And R. Nutt, And R. Gosling, 1725. [ii], iv, [4], 480, [22] pp. Folio (12-1/2” x 8”).

THIRD EDITION. Covers the years 1673-1681. Finch, 1st Earl of Nottingham, was an expert on municipal law. The first edition of this reporter was published in 1671; the last two editions in 1815 and 1902. All are scarce. Clarke [1703-1764] was a British judge who served as Master of the Rolls. He was a close friend of Thomas Parker, Earl of Macclesfield [1666-1732]. Since Clarke’s parentage was unclear, some believe Clark was Macclesfield’s son. Clarke’s copy once belonged to the library of Shirbirn Castle, the library of the Earls of Macclesfield and one of the finest private libraries in Great Britain. Not in Wallace.

36. Finch, Sir Henry [1558-1625].

Law, Or a Discourse Thereof, In Four Books. Written in French by Sir Hen. Finch Kt. His Majesties Serjeant at Law. And Done Into English by the Same Author.

Contemporary calf, blind rules to boards, raised bands and blind fillets to spine, gilt rules to board edges. Worn, boards detached along with front free endpaper and leaves A1-3, some small scuffs, nicks and scratches to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, wear to spine ends and corners, which are bumped, early annotation (and ownership signature?) to rear free endpaper, its upper right corner lacking. Light toning to interior, light soiling in a few places, light edgewear to detached leaves, leaf A4 loosening at head but secure. Ownership signature of Sir Frederick Pollock ("F. Pollock/ Linc: Inn/ 1898") to verso of initial blank. Item housed in archival box.

FOURTH EDITION IN ENGLISH. Originally published in Law-French in 1613 as Nomotechnia: Un Description del Common Leyes D'Angletere, "Finch's Law, till the publication of Blackstone's Commentaries, was regarded as the best elementary book to be placed in the hands of the law students. It is one of the few attempts that have been made to reduce the common law into system... [Finch's] definitions were exact, his style concise and nervous, and his illustrations clear and authentic. Most of the valuable parts of Finch are incorporated in Blackstone's Commentaries” (Sweet & Maxwell).

The first English-language edition was published in 1627. Holdsworth says the English version was the “pioneer book on the institutes of English law” and a model for several writers.

Pollock [1845-1937] was one of the greatest British judges and legal scholars of his day. His treatises on contracts, jurisprudence, the common law and other subjects did much to clarify and systematize English law. Several of these were standard texts that went through several editions. He is also remembered for his collaboration with F.W. Maitland on The History of English Law Before the Time of Edward I and his correspondence with Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., which was published posthumously as The Holmes-Pollock Letters.

38. Forbes, William [d. 1745].

Contemporary calf, gilt rules to boards, lettering piece, gilt-edged raised bands and small early paper shelf label to spine. Rubbing to boards and extremities with wear to spine ends and corners, front joint cracked, rear joint starting, armorial bookplate of the Earls of Macclesfield to front pastedown, shelf number in early hand to front free endpaper, small embossed Macclesfield stamps to frontispiece, title page and a few other leaves. Title page printed in red and black. Light toning to interior, a few worm holes to gutter, light foxing and browning to a few leaves, light soiling to title page.

FIRST EDITION. Forbes was the first Regius Professor of Law at the University of Glasgow, also dean, from 1714 until his death, also dean of the Faculty of Law, 1732 to 1734, and the quaestor of the University Library from 1736 to 1738. He was the first to teach Scots Law at a university. A second edition of his Journal was published in 1763. Our copy of this title belonged to the Earls of Macclesfield. Housed in Shirbirn Castle, near Watlington, Oxfordshire, theirs was one of the finest private libraries in Great Britain. It also includes the portrait frontispiece included in a few copies of this work.

Recent period-style quarter sprinkled calf over marbled boards, raised bands, gilt and blind fillets and lettering piece to spine, endpapers renewed. Moderate toning to interior, faint dampspotting in places, offsetting and minor worming to margins of title page and following leaf.

Only edition. Based on Clitherow’s biographical preface from the Reports, which was also included in several edition of the Commentaries, this is the first independent biography of Blackstone. The ESTC notes this work is “[s]ometimes attributed to Sylvester Douglas, Baron Glenbervie and D. or Dr. Douglas; the attribution to Sylvester Douglas (b. 1743) is incorrect as p. xviii of the preface to the Nomenclature states ‘The compiler of this nomenclature attended the several courts of justice himself, in and from Trinity term, 1750.’” It also shows some copies have the indexes of all three parts bound at the rear of the text.

Disbound stab-stitched pamphlet. Light toning, leaves starting to separate at head but secure, light foxing and soiling to a few leaves, clean tear to leaf D1 (pp. 17-18) mended on recto without loss to legibility, ink library stamp to p. 69.

ONLY EDITION. A response to Charles Yorke’s Some Considerations on the Law of Forfeitures for High Treason (1st ed. 1745), which argued that corruption of blood and forfeiture are justifiable consequences of treason in light of the failed Jacobite rebellion of 1745. Gordon disagrees, using common law, Athenian and Roman sources to support his argument that forfeiture and other too-harsh punishments will only encourage further rebellion. The Case and Memoirs of the Late Rev. Mr. James Hackman, And of His Acquaintance with the Late Miss Martha Reay....

Stab-stitched pamphlet bound in recent marbled boards, edges speckled red. Light toning to interior, faint offsetting to last three leaves, small hole to half-title not affecting text, partial early ownership signature dated 1779 to its upper right corner.

FOURTH EDITION. Ray was a singer and the mistress of the Earl of Sandwich, to whom she bore nine children. She had a short-lived affair with James Hackman, a soldier turned minister. When she broke the affair off, Hackman remained obsessively infatuated and continued to pursue her. He came to believe that she had taken another lover and murdered her and attempted to shoot himself. This failed and he was hanged at Tyburn. Questions as to his sanity at the time of the crime inspired this sympathetic pamphlet, which includes an apology for his character and an appendix lamenting the abuses of the press and the “arrogant conduct” of justices of the peace. It went through nine editions (some re-issues with new title pages), all in 1779. Stab-stitched pamphlet. Light soiling to exterior, light edgewear to first few leaves, early ink mark and later library label to title page. Moderate toning to interior, light foxing and soiling in a few places.

ONLY EDITION. One of the great English jurists of the seventeenth century, Hale was chief baron of the Exchequer from 1660 to 1666, when he became chief justice of the King’s Bench. He was also a deeply religious man who published several devotional works. Addressed to England’s lawyers and judges, and legalistic in tone, the Judgment contains three discourses on “The Use of Religion,” “The Principle of Religion” and “What the Christian Religion Is.” All are strongly critical of dissent from the Church of England, points echoed in the appended works by Bacon and Barrow.

Contemporary sheep, blind rules to boards, blind fillets and fragment of later hand-lettered label to spine, early hand-lettered title to fore-edge of text block. Light rubbing and faint staining to boards, which are slightly bowed, large scuff near upper outside corner of front boards, light fading to spine, chipping to spine ends, rear joint just starting at head, corners bumped and somewhat worn, hinges cracked, front free endpaper lacking. Light toning to interior, faint dampstaining to lower outside corner of text block, later owner stamp (“Sheppard”) to title page.

First Edition, Second Issue. This landmark study went through seven editions and was revised and reissued, as a much-expanded work, in 1736. “Hale was able to suggest a methodical arrangement of English law, which was at once scientific and practical. (…) Historically [Pleas of the Crown] is interesting as the first attempt to introduce some order into this branch of the law” (Holdsworth). The first issue of this title, also from 1678, has a different pagination and does not identify Hale as the author.

Contemporary pebbled cloth, later rebackings, gilt library name to front boards, gilt library insignia to rear boards, Books 1 and 2 have gilt fillets and title to quarter-calf spine, Book 3 has a textured cloth spine with blind fillets and gilt title, volume number, library name and publication date, all hinges mended, untrimmed edges. Light rubbing and a few stains to boards, moderate rubbing to board edges, corners bumped and somewhat worn, front hinge of Book 3 starting, small shelf labels to front pastedowns. Moderate toning to interior, light foxing and soiling in a few places, library stamps to title pages and a few other leaves.

Only Edition. Hammond, a barrister and legal reformer, was commissioned by Parliament, under the sponsorship of Home Secretary Sir Robert Peel [1788-1850], to propose a code of English criminal law. Between 1823 and 1829 he produced a series of six codes under the general title The Criminal Code. Although they weren’t adopted, they formed the basis of Peel’s Acts, the first substantial reform of English criminal law. Public Opinion in India on the Trial of Captain T.N. Harward, Royal Artillery, In the Civil Courts of Bengal, By the Local Government.
[Cambridge]: Printed for Private Circulation [by Jonathan Palmer], 1866. 56 pp. Octavo (8-1/2” x 5-1/2”). $950.

Stab-stitched pamphlet in self-wrappers. Light toning, vertical fold line, light soiling to a few leaves, light fading to title page, thread loosening slightly but secure. Rare.

ONLY EDITION. Harward, a decorated captain who served under Havelock, was accused along with an accomplice of criminal breach of trust for allegedly disposing of weapons in an improper manner. Tried in a civilian court, he fought hard to clear his name and was ultimately found not guilty. Our pamphlet collects extracts from Indian newspapers discussing the case, all favorable to Harward. The case became a flashpoint for what the English considered abuses by local Indian courts. Several extracts complain about alleged dishonesty by native witnesses against Harward and make specific mention of the lack of a grand jury in the Anglo-Indian justice system, claiming that a grand jury is the best protection “against the prejudice and ignorance of the Civilians, and the animosity and hostility of the Natives” (14). MURDER, RAPE AND TRIAL BY BATTLE

47. Holroyd, Edward [1794-1881].

Observations Upon the Case of Abraham Thornton, Who was Tried at Warwick, August 8, 1817, For the Murder of Mary Ashford: Shewing the Danger of Pressing Presumptive Evidence Too Far, Together with the Only True and Authentic Account Yet Published of the Evidence Given at the Trial, The Examination of the Prisoner, &c., And a Correct Plan of the Locus in Quo.

Disbound stab-stitched pamphlet, untrimmed edges. Moderate toning, light soiling to exterior, dampspotting to map, small library stamps to title page and frontispiece.

THIRD AND FINAL EDITION, one of three printed in 1819. Abraham Thornton, a bricklayer, “was accused of rape and murder after attending a dance where he became intimate with a gardener’s daughter named Mary Ashford. They left the dance together and her body was found the next morning in a deep pool of water near a local footpath. Thornton was tried at the Warwick assizes on 8 August 1817. Since the marks on Mary’s body were not necessarily inconsistent with Thornton’s claim that she had consented to sexual intercourse, and since the times on the morning in question when Thornton was seen walking home to Bromwich suggested he could not have been with her when she met her death, the jury found him not guilty.

The case aroused much interest and reminded people of a similar murder of a local woman a year earlier. Many were convinced of Thornton’s guilt and he was assailed in local and London newspapers. A group collected around the Birmingham solicitor William Bedford invoked the old legal process of ‘appeal of murder,’ by which a person acquitted of murder could be tried again for the same offense. This process was generally regarded as obsolete, though there had been several instances in the eighteenth century. More controversy arose when Thornton came before the court of King's Bench in November 1817 and demanded ordeal by battle, which was open to the subject of an appeal of murder but had not been claimed since Charles I’s reign. After several hearings between November 1817 and April 1818 the court decided that the appellee did have this right. The appeal of murder was dropped. Appeals of murder were abolished in 1819 partly because of this case” (Turner). Unable to lead a normal life in England, Thornton moved to the United States and settled in Baltimore, Maryland.

A COMPARISON OF AMERICAN AND BRITISH COMMERCE

48. Holroyd, John [1735-1821], 1st Earl of Sheffield.

Observations on the Commerce of the American States.

Contemporary speckled calf, blind rules to boards, gilt fillets and title to spine, gilt rules to board edges, edges of text block speckled red. Light rubbing, faint dampstaining and a few shallow scuffs to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, front joint starting at head, tiny wormhole near foot of spine, corners lightly bumped and worn, faint dampstaining to endleaves, brief early annotation (shelfmark?) to front pastedown. Light toning to interior, faint dampstain to upper outside corner of pp. 59-104 and pp. 271-280, early correction to p. 152, small faint stains to second table.

THIRD LONDON EDITION, one of two issues. Written in opposition to a proposal by William Pitt to relax some navigation laws in favor of the United States, this is a highly detailed comparison of American and British imports and exports from 1700-1783 with a focus on the years 1773 and 1783. According to Howes, it was highly influential in shaping England’s trade policy in ways which proved “detrimental to American commerce and shipping interests” and hastened the formation of a federal response “to retaliate against British maritime might.”

Negligible light rubbing and a few minor scuffs to boards, faint crease to front board of Volume II, some rubbing to spines, corners bumped and somewhat worn, front hinges of Volumes I and II cracked, other hinges starting, bookplate of Lady Diana Duff Cooper to front pastedowns. Moderate toning to interiors, light foxing and faint dampstaining in a few places, faint offsetting from plates, repairs to corners of a few leaves with no loss to text. A handsome set.

THIS POPULAR WORK began as a monthly record of executions issued by the keeper of London’s Newgate Prison. The title was eventually adopted by several publishers of criminal biographies. The first work to collect these was published in 1760. Didactic and lurid in equal measure, it went through several editions by different compilers and publishers into the twentieth century. Hogg’s version was published and complete in six volumes. Two volumes were added later and marketed as part of the set. (A projected ninth volume does not appear to have been published.) Lady Diana Duff Cooper [1892-1986], a former owner of our set, was a famous English aristocrat, actress and socialite. Her husband, Duff Cooper, a notable politician and historian, was the British ambassador to France.

[BOUND WITH] [Kyd, Stewart].

[London?: s.n., 1799 or 1800]. [ii], [3]-101. Like many copies, as noted by the ESTC, issued without title page. $1,500.

Octavo (9” x 5-3/4”). Recent period-style quarter calf over marbled boards, lettering piece, blind fillets and gilt title to spine, endpapers renewed. Moderate toning to interior, light foxing in a few places, later annotations in pencil to rear endleaves.

FIRST EDITION. Kyd, a Scottish lawyer and radical politician, was a well-respected writer of treatises on commercial law. Arrangement is a fascinating overview of the various forms of personal taxation in Great Britain at the beginning of the nineteenth century. A second, enlarged edition appeared in 1801. Methodical Arrangement is an explication of one of several income tax acts passed in 1799. The ESTC considers this work, possibly an expansion of Kyd’s The Substance of the Income Act (1799), bibliographically distinct, but it appears in a similar or identical form in other copies of the first edition of Arrangement that we have seen. (The ESTC record for this work shows that it does not have a title page.) Both editions of Arrangement are rare. OCLC locates 3 copies of the first edition (British Library, Library of Congress, University of Cincinnati Law School). (The copy it locates at the San Francisco Law Library appears to be an error.)

A Perambulation of Kent: Containing the Description, Hystorie, And Customes of that Shyre. Collected and Written (For the Most Part) in the Yeare. 1570. By William Lambard of Lincolnes Inne Gent. And Now Increased by the Addition of Some Things Which the Author Him Selfe Hath Observed Since That Time.

Nineteenth-century calf, gilt rules and corner fleurons to boards, gilt spine with raised bands and (renewed?) lettering piece, blind toothing to board edges, edges speckled red, endleaves renewed. Light rubbing to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, front joint just starting at head, rear joint just starting at ends, front hinge cracked, rear hinge just starting, faint offsetting and recent penciled notes to endpapers, ownership signature (of John Burns) in ink to front free endpaper. Moderate toning to interior, very light foxing and soiling in a few places, faint dampstain to bottom edge of first twenty or so leaves, slight creasing to a few leaves, brief early annotations to a few pages and longer annotation (describing gavelkind) to final blank. A handsome copy.

FIRST EDITION. The Perambulation of Kent is among the earliest and most famous of English county histories. The section on the county's customs includes much valuable information regarding gavelkind, a form of land inheritance, and other local legal practices. Lambarde is also the author of Archaionomia (1568), an important early work on Anglo-Saxon law, and Eirenarcha (1581), one of the great English manuals for justices of the peace.

Our copy of the Perambulation was owned by John Burns [1858-1943], an English trade unionist, Liberal politician and enthusiastic historian of London. It is one of two 1576 variants and does not include Henry Middleton's name in the colophon. This variant is rare. OCLC locates 1 copy in North America (Huntington Library); the ESTC adds 1 North American copy (Yale). This variant not in Beale.

lightly bumped, rear hinge cracked. Light toning to text, slightly heavier in places, tiny worm track near upper corners of final four text leaves, rear free endpaper and rear pastedown, early owner annotation to pp. 10 and 34 and rear free endpaper. Book housed in a cloth clamshell box, quarter morocco over cloth, gilt title and gilt-edged raised bands to spine. A notably well-preserved copy of a rare title.

FIRST EDITION. An early form of "consumer protection," this book was written to protect members of the middle ranks of English society from the "cunning" of "persons of a higher Rank," who always enjoyed the "Learning and Leisure to read the Law." Two later editions were published in 1709 and 1720 with the title Gentleman’s Assistant, Tradesman’s Lawyer and Country-Man’s Friend. A REMARKABLE COLLECTION OF NINETEENTH-CENTURY WORKS ON LEGAL REFORM AND INTERNATIONAL LAW COMPILED BY A NOTABLE SCOTTISH LAWYER

55. [Law Reform].

[Murray, David (1842-1928)].

[The David Murray Collection of Law Reform and International Law].

Contemporary three-quarter calf over marbled boards, gilt-stamped insignia of the Royal Faculty of Procurators, Glasgow, to front boards, blind rules to joint edges and corners, raised bands and lettering pieces to spines, marbled edges and endpapers, presentation bookplate from David Murray to the Faculty dated April 29, 1902 to front pastedown of first volume. Light rubbing to boards, light residue from leather treatment, occasional scuffs, nicks, scratches and spots to boards and extremities, which are more moderately rubbed with darkening in a few places, some lettering pieces loose but secure, cracking to spines of Volumes 14-16, rear board of Volume 1 detached, front joints of Volumes 1-2 starting at foot, joints of Volume 16 starting at ends. Volumes 1, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10 and 13 have descriptions of their contents in Murray’s hand to their half-titles. A remarkable, handsomely bound collection.

THIS COLLECTION pertains chiefly to the subjects of law reform and international law. It was formed during the nineteenth century by the notable Scottish lawyer, bibliophile and antiquary, David Murray, who presented it to the Library of the Royal Faculty of Procurators in Glasgow in 1902. As we can see in the contents, which span almost the entire nineteenth century, Murray had long possessed a sustaining interest in law reform. Many titles touch upon the numerous areas of law that were dramatically reformed during the 1800s, including bankruptcy law, conveyancing and real property law, judicial administration, chancery and equity, and, to a lesser extent, codification, criminal law and jurisprudence.
Many of the works are presentation copies inscribed to other well-known international lawyers and reformers of the nineteenth century, among them Sir Travers Twiss, Sir John Connell, and Edwin Wilkins Field. Among the authors themselves are John Austin, Basil Montagu, Lords Brougham and Grenville, Edward Sugden and John Westlake. Most of the works appear to be quite rare. Preliminary searching indicates that among those checked about 50% are not located in OCLC, and over 80% are found in two locations or fewer.

Later paneled calf, rebacked with gilt-edged raised bands and gilt author name and title to spine, blind decoration to compartments, blind tooling to board edges, endpapers renewed, edges speckled red. Light rubbing and some minor nicks and scratches to boards, light rubbing to extremities, spine and board edges lightly varnished, corners neatly mended, library bookplate to front pastedown and front endleaf. Text in two columns with linear gloss, printed in red and black, occasional woodcut initials. Light toning to interior, light soiling in a few places, small hole to lower right corner of first two leaves, minor loss to legibility of two words of text on f. ii, trimming to top-edge affecting headline on ff. xvii and xlii, clean tear to f. cxxii, no loss to legibility, small hole to margin of final leaf, brief contemporary annotations to a few pages. A nice copy of an important title.

SECOND POST-1500 EDITION. Main text followed by 28-ff. two-part index. Compiled around 1433 and first published around 1483-1485, Provinciale is the main authority for early English canon law. Divided into five books, it is a digest of the synodal constitutions of the province of Canterbury, from the period of Archbishop Stephen Langton [c.1155-1228] to that of Archbishop Henry Chichele [1414-1443], with Lyndwood’s gloss. It is considered the law of the Church of England by some authorities. This edition was printed in Antwerp for the English market.

57. Mackintosh, Sir James [1765-1832].

A Discourse on the Study of the Law of Nature and Nations; Introductory to a Course of Lectures on that Science, To be Commenced in Lincoln’s Inn Hall, On Wednesday Feb 13, 1799.

London: Printed for T. Cadell, Jun. and W. Davies, in the Strand; J. Debrett, Piccadilly; and W. Clarke, Portugal Street, Lincoln’s Inn, 1799. [iv], 68 pp. Octavo (8-1/4” x 5”).

Stab-stitched pamphlet bound in recent period style quarter calf over marbled boards by Philip Dusel. Light toning, faint offsetting to half-title and final leaf, internally clean. A handsome copy.

FIRST EDITION. “In 1799 [Mackintosh] gave a course of thirty-nine lectures in Lincoln’s Inn Hall on the Law of Nature and Nations which were attended by many distinguished men, including six peers and twelve members of the House of Commons. They were an interesting set of lectures on jurisprudence, which dealt with the relations between law and morals and with some of the underlying principles of public law, private law, and international law. His inaugural lecture, which he published under the title of A Discourse of the Law of Nature and Nations, is an able introduction possessed of literary qualities which were then not usually found in law books” (Holdsworth). It went through several editions, with the final edition appearing in 1835. An American edition was published in 1843.

The Power of Parliaments Considered, In a Letter to a Member of Parliament.

Disbound stab-stitched pamphlet. Moderate toning, light soiling to exterior, tiny stain and small library stamp to title page.

SECOND AND FINAL EDITION, a reissue of the first edition, also published in 1799. Jealous of its power, the Irish Parliament initially rejected the Act of Union with Great Britain. Maddock’s pamphlet is a reply to this rejection. It argues that the British Parliament should ignore the Irish Parliament and go forward with the union because it is a legally superior body. Both editions are rare. OCLC locates 1 copy of the second edition (MPIFA Öffentliches Recht & Völkerrecht); the ESTC adds 7 more, 1 in North America (Newberry Library).

An Essay on Insurances, Explaining the Nature of the Various Kinds of Insurance Practised by the Different Commercial States of Europe, And Shewing their Consistency or Inconsistency with Equity and the Public Good. Illustrated by Real and Extraordinary Cases, Stated at Large, With Observations Thereon, Tending to Settle Divers Doubtful Points in Making Up Accounts of Losses and Averages. To Which are Annexed, Some Brief Hints to Merchants and Insurers Concerning the Risks to which Navigation is Exposed in Time of War; The King of Prussia’s Exposition in Relation to the Capture and Detention of the Ships of his Subjects by the English During the Late War; The Answer from England to It; Some Remarkable Pieces Concerning the Stopping of Ships in Former Wars; And a Famous Insurance Cause Pleaded Before the House of Lords, And Some Mercantile Observations Thereon.

Recent period-style quarter calf over marbled boards, gilt-edged raised bands, lettering pieces and blind fillets to boards, endpapers renewed, retained armorial bookplates of William Curtis Noyes to front pastedowns. Light toning to interior, more moderate in a few places, occasional light foxing, check marks to margins and brief annotation to pp. 181-182 of Volume I.

ONLY EDITION IN ENGLISH. First published in German in Hamburg in 1753 and substantially revised and enlarged in translation, this was the first English book on insurance. It was highly esteemed by Adam Smith, who cites it several times in The Wealth of Nations. The first volume describes the nature of insurance policies in European states and includes an overview of “real and extraordinary cases” that illustrate key points. The second volume translates foreign insurance ordinances into English, lists relevant English acts of parliament and summarizes commercial treatises between England and foreign nations. Magens, a German merchant and naturalized British citizen, was also the author of the popular work The Universal Merchant (1753).

William Curtis Noyes [1805-1864], the former owner of our copy, was a leading New York lawyer and a member of the commission to codify the state’s laws, which resulted in the Field Codes. A man of extensive learning, he owned one of the finest law libraries in the United States.

Jones, Sir William [1746-1794], Translator and Editor.
Later library cloth, black-stamped title to spine, marbled edges, endpapers renewed. Some shelfwear, light fading and a few minor marks to binding. Light toning to interior, light foxing to title page and a few other leaves.
SECOND AND FINAL EDITION. The Manusmriti, or Laws of Manu, is an important statement of Hindu law. Attributed to Manu, the progenitor of humanity in Hindu theology, it was compiled in its final form around 200 BCE. It is a collection of laws governing individuals, communities and nations and is an important (and somewhat controversial) source of information about the caste system and the status of women. This work achieved its international prominence through Jones’s translation. First published in 1794, it was the first unabridged version in English. Jones, the able judge of the High Court of Calcutta and brilliant linguist, was attracted to this work because of its structural similarities to the Institutes of Justinian. Intending to establish Manu as the Justinian of India, he intended to follow this translation with translations of other texts that resembled other parts of the Corpus Juris Civilis. Unfortunately, he did not live long enough to complete this project.

ADRESSED TO THE EMINENT SHAKESPEAREAN GEORGE STEEVENS, the letter discusses Blackstone’s critical notes on Shakespeare, which were ultimately published the following year (after his death) in Edmund Malone’s supplement to the 1778 edition of Shakespeare’s plays by Samuel Johnson and George Steevens. Blackstone returns a transcription of the notes “together with the new ones that have occurred on a transient Perusal of Mr Steevens’s second edition. He will see that Sir W[illia]m (Author-like) continues a little prejudiced in favour of One of his Emendations, which Mr Steevens is afraid of proposing: but, to make amends, he has given up another to Mr Steevens’s more accurate Judgement.” He adds that there is no need to send a transcript of the new “observations,” and concludes with a note on a legal case: “Inquiry has been made at the Exchequer; - & [the] Result is, that nothing can be done there till the Fine is estreated, & then it may be discharged upon Motion supported by Affidavit.”

ASSOCIATIONS for the prosecution of felons were established throughout Great Britain before the creation of professional municipal police forces. The earliest date to the mid-eighteenth century; there were around 500 by 1840. A form of insurance, these associations covered the costs associated with investigating crimes, paying rewards and bringing criminals to justice.

Over 130 individuals and businesses joined this association in Stourbridge, a market town near Birmingham, and pledged amounts ranging from £10 to £105. The list shows their first and second installments. Among those are Lord Lyttleton, probably William Henry Lyttleton, 3rd Baron Lyttleton [1782-1837] and Reverend Joseph Taylor, who became minister of the local church in 1808. Several of the subscriber names can be found in The Commercial Directory (for 1818, 1819, 1820, accessed online), including Francis Rufford & Sons, manufacturer of fire bricks, Sergeant Hornblower, iron master, Thomas Wheeley, glass manufacturer, and Henry Jervis, toolmaker.

COMMONPLACE BOOK ON LAND AND ESTATE LAW

63. [Manuscript].
[Commonplace Book].

Great Britain, 17th century. 455 ff [with intermittent blanks]. Quarto (8” x 5-3/4”). $4,500.

Contemporary reversed calf, blind rules to boards, rebacked retaining existing spine with raised bands and hand-lettered title (“IRSTVW?”), blind tooling to board edges, metal clasps to fore-edges, one lacking, edges untrimmed. Light rubbing to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, joints just starting at ends, a few slight cracks to spine, three of four corners mended (the other bumped and lightly worn), hinges cracked, pastedowns loose, later bookseller’s description tipped onto inner front board. Text in Law French in one, possibly two neat hands in two columns within red-ruled borders, headings in English and Law French. Light toning to interior, light soiling in a few places, a few (mostly partial) cracks to text block, all leaves secure.

ORGANIZED BY SUBJECT, this interesting and extensive commonplace book includes extracts on a wide range of topics in land and estate law such as annuity, suspension, remainder, tenure, legacy and legatee, chivalry, charitable uses, usury, homage and fealty. It appears to cite both authors, such as Bracton and Croke, and relevant cases and statutes.
A man marries a woman that hath an Estate of Inheritance, and an Estate for Life, and a Lease for Years, or other chattels real, also debts owing to her and goods or chattels personal, the Question is what doth the Law give to the husband by the Intermarriage without any other gift to him from the wife.

The answer must be several, viz.

1. If the woman at the time of the marriage hath an Estate in Fee simple or an Estate tail in any Lands, tenements, rents, or other Hereditaments, the Husband is seized immediately of the Freehold thereof not in his own Right, but it is her own, and he shall have the Profits thereof during their Joint Lives, and if the Husband have a child by her born alive (albeit it dye) yet after the wife's death, the Husband shall hold the said Land or other Hereditaments during his own Life as Tenant by Curtesy, but the husband dye before the wife, she shall have for her own Inheritance again immediately after his death to her and her heirs; and if the wife dye before the husband, and there hath been no child born alive then the heir of the wife (whether it be her brothers, sisters, Uncles, or other Cousins of her Blood) shall immediately after her death have the said Land from her husband, And if the wife dye before the husband, after the husband be dead, to wit, when her husband have been a child born alive then after the husband's death, to wit, when his estate by curtesy ends, the heir of the wife shall have the Land as heir, and wife at any time by a fine may sell or give away his Land as they please, and the husband alone, without his wife, may grant or charge the Land during the Joint Lives of him and his wife, and if he hath a child a Child by her) then during his own Life. THIS HANDSOME LEAF is from a manuscript collection of sample writs, the documents necessary to initiate legal actions. A cornerstone of the common law, these collections were an essential tool for lawyers in medieval England. Some were compiled from several sources or copied from other examples. The source of our leaf appears to be a copy of a widely circulated collection dating from the reign of Edward III [1327-1377]. Known as the Registrum Brevium, it was the source of the first printed collection of writs, which was published in 1494 by Richard Pynson.

“NEVER PRINTED BUT LENT ME TO COPY”

65. [Manuscript].

Lowndes, William [1652-1724].

A Treatise of Estates & Conveyances by Wm. Lowndes Esqr. Late Secretary of the Treasury. Never Printed but Lent Me to Copy. AD 1712....Ends page[49].

Contemporary calf, gilt frames to boards, raised bands and recent shelf label to spine, marbled endpapers. Minor nicks and scuffs to boards, a few paint spatters to rear board, moderate rubbing to extremities with some wear to spine ends and corners, moderate toning to interior. Leaves ruled in red ink, text in several neat hands.

LOWNDES, a Whig politician, was Secretary to the Treasury under King William III and Queen Anne. An effective administrator, he dominated Treasury affairs for thirty years. His unpublished Treatise on Estates & Conveyances is divided into six chapters: “Of Several Kinds of Estates in Law,” “Concerning Possession, Seisin, Things Lying in Livery, & Things Lying in Grant,” “Of Reversions and Remainders,” “Of Uses,” “Of the Several Kinds of Common Assurances” and “More Concerning Common Assurances.” This section is dated 1699. At the end is a final, related question, dated 1704, that asks what a husband gains by marriage to a wife who possesses various forms of estate.

The text of this section is in a neat scribal hand, with a title page and table of contents in a different hand. Following the Lowndes text are several related documents in different hands, including a copy of the marriage settlement of William Dennis and Dorothy Cotton in 1696 (by which he gained estates of £5000), a copy of a document of 1718 attesting to the settlement of a debt from the estate and “An Underlease of part of a Bishop’s Lease for three Lives.”

Francis Luttrell [1683-1740], barrister and son of the book collector Narcissus Luttrell, may have written part of this manuscript. In 1712 Narcissus attempted to secure a place in the Treasury for his son, which would likely have brought them into contact with Lowndes. (Lowndes, incidentally, was not “late Secretary of the Treasury” in 1712, though a joint secretary had been appointed in 1711.) The 1718 document mentions Narcissus Luttrell’s sister, Dorothy Wynne, and cousin, Henry Manaton. The manuscript was part of the Pendarves Archive of the Luttrell and Wynne families of Cornwall, which was dispersed at auction in 2013.

Contemporary gilt-paneled morocco, gilt royal arms to boards, gilt library seal to front board, raised bands, gilt decoration and lettering piece to spine, gilt tooling to board edges, gilt dentelles to inner boards, gilt edges, marbled endpapers. Light rubbing and a few minor scuffs to boards, front board detached along with front free endpaper, rear board separating but secured by cords, moderate rubbing to extremities, chipping to spine ends and lettering piece, corners bumped and worn, ownership signature (David Murray, Glasgow) to verso of front free endpaper. Text with side notes in a single neat hand within redruled borders. Light toning to interior, small spots and smudges to a few leaves, internally clean.

These standing orders, listing a variety of regulations for the proceedings of the House of Lords, are dated from June 9, 1660 to May 11, 1767. Topics include appropriate conduct for members when the king is present, procedures for trials of peers and the prevention of quarrels. The orders were read aloud at the beginning of each session, and the clerk produced copies for peers for a fee. David Murray [1842-1928] was a Scottish lawyer, antiquarian and bibliophile who amassed one of Scotland’s finest private libraries.
THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH I saw numerous attempts to relieve poverty through legislation. From 1552 to 1598, a series of statutes were passed which empowered justices of the peace and churchwardens to register the poor and raise funds for their relief. The so-called “Elizabethan Poor Law” of 1601 consolidated the previous legislation and provided for the creation of “overseers” of relief, who would work under justices of the peace to set a compulsory sum to be extracted from each parish, among other duties. The effects of the 1601 law and other “poor laws” resonated widely, from the penal system to the labor market to universities and the education system in general.

The text of our manuscript relates to the so-called “Resolutions of the Judges of Assize” of 1633. These “resolutions,” intended to address ambiguities in the 1601 Poor Law, take the form of a series of questions submitted to Chief Justice Heath and his answers. “Although apparently repudiated after the Restoration as invalid, Heath’s interpretations were nonetheless employed consistently by both magistrates and judges as the standard guide to the rigorous enforcement of the poor laws which characterized the 1630s” (Cockburn). The text subsequently appeared in print in various justice of the peace manuals, with the earliest of these appearances around 1655 in Dalton’s County Justice. Our manuscript likely pre-dates printed versions of the text; similar manuscripts are held by the British Library.
This volume was owned by Walter Ashburner [1864-1936], a British legal scholar and an important collector of early printed books and manuscripts. The “Bibliotheca Confanoneria” bookplate likely originates from Italy, where Ashburner traveled extensively. It is unclear whether it pre or post-dates Ashburner’s ownership.

INDEXED MANUSCRIPT 1872 DIARY OF AN ENGLISH LAW STUDENT

68. [Manuscript].
Tutin, George [d. 1888].

Diary 1872.

Original pebbled cloth, blind frames to boards, gilt title to center of front board, marbled edges. Binding cocked, moderate rubbing, faint dampstaining and affixed fragment from a document (?) to rear board, hinges cracked, text block secure. Moderate toning to interior, faint dampstaining in a few places, content in fine neat hand, additional annotations to endleaves, head of rear free endpaper stuck to rear pastedown with minor loss to content, slip with additional content affixed to a leaf (pp. 108-109) with a pin.

TUTIN, of Kirklington, near Ripon, was seventeen when he commenced this diary. From a farming family, he was admitted as a solicitor in 1875 and established a successful practice in Ripon. The diary, of some fifteen thousand words, records his work as a law student and his other activities, such as bucolic walks and picnics. He also describes current affairs and such events as a colliery explosion at Dewsbury and Disraeli’s trip to Manchester. The affixed leaf has an apparently original poem titled “The Bird-Killing Tribe.”

Contemporary paneled morocco, elaborate blind and gilt fillets to boards, gilt spine with raised bands and gilt title (“Costum China”) to spine, gilt tooling to outer and inner board edges, edges of text block gilt. Light rubbing and a few small scuffs to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, spine very lightly varnished, light wear to head of front joint and corners, which are bumped, front hinge just starting at head, armorial bookplate (of J.M. Sagar-Musgrave) to front pastedown.

Light toning to interior, faint offsetting from plates, light foxing in a few places, faint stain to upper gutter of Plate V and following page not affecting image or text, Plates IV and XX affected by trimming at fore-edge with minor loss to images.

[WITH] [Album of 12 Chinese Export Watercolors Depicting Punishments].
N.d., circa mid-nineteenth century. $3,000.

Twelve 6” x 9-3/4” watercolor (or gouache) drawings on pith paper with blue silk ribbon borders, mounted on contemporary untrimmed 8-1/4” x 12-1/2” sheet tipped onto 11” x 14” card. Light toning, occasional faint dampstaining and spotting to images and larger sheet, tears to pith paper affecting six of the images with minor loss, most very small with a larger tear to final image. Drawings housed in modern red morocco binder with gilt frames to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, light fading to spine, light wear to spine ends and corners.

Together two items.

PUNISHMENTS: first edition, six plates watermarked 1818. As trade with China increased, Chinese culture began to take hold of the British imagination. This was particularly true in cases where Chinese people and practices could be stereotyped or depicted as barbaric. Written by an East India Company soldier who traveled to Canton in 1789, Punishments of China depicts lurid scenes of torture and contrasts Chinese and Western customs.
Export albums like ours were produced in the port cities of China for tourists in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Early watercolors were done on European paper, which later shifted to the thin pith paper of the present example. They were typically sold in sets of 12 or 24 and depicted a variety of subjects, including tea culture, manufacturing and local flora and fauna. The first workshop to produce these albums was Pu-Quà’s in Canton, where Mason may have purchased a similar group of drawings of punishments; the images in our album depict scenes similar to the stipple engravings in Punishments of China but with different compositions.

Light rubbing to boards, two tiny cracks in joints, moderate rubbing to board edges, corners bumped and worn, hinges, which are reinforced with cloth, starting, faint ink property stamps to pastedowns, faint offsetting to endleaves. Moderate toning to interior, negligible light soiling to a few leaves, ownership signature of Joseph P. Bradley, dated 1839, to title page, contemporary newspaper clipping (dated August 12, 1797) tipped onto p. 501.

ONLY EDITION. “This work furnished, when it first appeared, a good exposition of the then existing Law of Insurance. The author collected what was to be found in Scotch Decisions, relevant to his subject, and examined and commented upon the English authorities with considerable acuteness. ‘He appears to have been equally familiar with the Continental Civilians, and to have discussed the principles of Insurance with uncommon judgment and freedom of inquiry.’ The volume, however, never obtained a great share of public favor, and is now rarely consulted” (Marvin).

Millar was the son of the jurist John Millar [1735-1801]. Joseph P. Bradley [1813-1892], the former owner of our copy, was an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court from 1870 to 1892. Admitted to the bar in 1839, Bradley also worked as an actuary for the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company and took an interest in patent, commercial and corporate cases during his career. THE RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES OF QUEEN CONSORTS

71. [Monarchy].

The Prerogatives of a Queen Consort of England.
London: Published by G. Smeeton, 1820. 41, [1] pp. Publisher’s advertisements to final page. Octavo (8” x 5”).

Disbound stab-stitched pamphlet. Light toning, light foxing in a few places, ink library stamps to title page and a few other pages, creasing to foot of final leaf.

SECOND EDITION, one of two imprints published in 1820. First published in 1762 as A Treatise on the Prerogatives of a Queen Consort of England, this treatise reviews the historical rights and privileges of a queen consort. The first edition was dedicated to Queen Charlotte and the second edition was published to mark the accession of Queen Caroline to the throne (despite the best efforts of King George to secure a divorce). All editions are scarce; the Smeeton edition is rare. OCLC and Library Hub locate 1 copy (National Library of Scotland).
72. Nicolas, Sir (Nicholas) Harris [1799-1848].
Observations on the Offices of Secretary of State, Lord Privy Seal, And Lord Chamberlain of the King’s Household; With Remarks on the Great Seal of England. [London: Eyre and Spottiswoode], 1837. 140 pp. Octavo (10” x 6-1/4”). $450.
Later cloth, gilt fillets, title, library name and publication date to spine, endpapers renewed. Light soiling, faint stain to head of rear board, bookplate and shelf label to front pastedown. Light toning to interior, several signatures unopened, finger smudges and library stamp to a few leaves, light soiling and library stamp to title page.

ONLY EDITION, 1 of 50 (unnumbered) copies “for private distribution.” Nicolas was a distinguished and prolific antiquarian. Observations is one of his few books on a legal subject. OCLC locates 5 copies in North America, 1 in a law library (University of Pennsylvania).

Sweet & Maxwell 2:257.

73. Peake, Thomas [1771-1838].
Recent quarter calf over marbled boards, endpapers renewed with old paper. Corners lightly rubbed and bumped, rear hinge starting. Light browning to interior, offsetting to margins of preliminaries and final leaves, early owner inscriptions and (illegible) signatures to front endleaf and head of title page, brief inscription (A.B Story’s 1804) to head of p. 1. An attractive copy.

FIRST EDITION. Peake’s was the standard treatise in the first decades of the nineteenth century, both in England and America. Its final English edition was published in 1822 and the final two American editions in 1824 and 1899. The first edition is scarce. OCLC locates 7 copies of the first edition in North American law libraries (Dalhousie, Loyola, Notre Dame, Temple, University of Florida, University of Pennsylvania, Yale).

“I DO NOT LOVE TO BE IDLE, IF THERE BE ANY PROBABILITY, OF GETTING MONEY”

74. [Pepys, Samuel (1633-1703)].
[Hewer, William].
Disbound pamphlet in later plain wrappers, pamphlet detached from wrappers, leaves separated. Moderate toning, light edgewear, light foxing, faint marginal staining, a few small wormholes to last two leaves just touching text without loss to legibility, early ink annotation (“No. 135”) to title page. Item housed in recent 13-3/4” x 9-3/4” buckram folder.
ONLY EDITION. Pepys, a civil servant and administrator, was accused of corruption and conspiracy to leak naval intelligence to the French along with his secretary, William Hewer. This satirical pamphlet details the extent of the two’s alleged crimes in the style of a hue and cry and imagines a dialogue between them in which they plot the best way to enrich themselves. Though Pepys, like many other civil servants, certainly took bribes, the charges of corruption and treason were eventually dropped and he returned to his post as Secretary of the Admiralty in 1684. “A RICH MASTERPIECE OF ELOQUENCE”

75. Phillips, Charles.

The Most Eloquent Speech, At Length, Of Mr. Phillips, In the Court of Common Pleas, Dublin, In the Case of Guthrie v. Sterne, For Adultery. With the Author’s Last Corrections: Not a Single Word Omitted.

London: Printed for W. Hone, 1816. 16 pp. Octavo (8-1/2” x 5”). $450.

Stab-stitched pamphlet bound in recent cloth, lettering piece and gilt date to spine. Boards bowed, light rubbing to extremities, bookplate (of Geoffrey C. Briggs) and small bookseller’s ticket to front pastedown. Light toning to interior, crack in text block after title page, light soiling in a few places, faint dampstain to top of first five leaves.

THIRTEENTH STATED EDITION, one of several from the same year. A leading Anglo-Irish barrister, Phillips was renowned for his oratory and experience with adultery cases. In Guthrie v. Sterne, a typical adultery case, he managed to secure £5,000 for the plaintiff, John Guthrie. OCLC locates 6 copies of all editions in North American law libraries (University of Pennsylvania, Yale, U.S. Supreme Court, University of Minnesota, LA County, University of Missouri). Not in the BMC.

76. Potts, Thomas [1778-1842].

Contemporary calf, blind fillets to boards, lettering piece and blind fillets to spine. Moderate rubbing and scuffing to boards, which are separated but secured by cords, faint stain to rear board, rubbing to extremities, chips to lettering piece, chipping to spine ends, corners bumped and worn, faint offsetting to endleaves, cello tape residue to front pastedown and free endpaper, brief annotation to front pastedown, early owner signatures (of Abel Holden) to front free endpaper. Light toning to interior, occasional light foxing, light soiling and folded corners to a few leaves.

FIRST EDITION. This useful dictionary went through three editions, the second in 1813 and the third and final appearing in 1815. As the subtitle indicates, Potts’s dictionary was intended for the prominent laymen engaged in business and agriculture. He pays special attention to commercial legislation regarding bankruptcy, insurance and bills of exchange, as well as to the nature of tenures and tithes. In addition to definitions, Potts discusses a variety of issues ranging from current regulations for dog muzzles to the legal rights and responsibilities of children.
77. [Practice].

Contemporary pebbled cloth, blind frames and gilt library name and insignia to boards, gilt title and library name to spine. Light rubbing, chipping to head of spine, title dulled, light wear to foot of spine, joints starting, moderate wear to corners, hinges cracked, bookplate and small location mark and label to front pastedown. Light toning to interior, faint spotting to margins in a few places, library stamps and minor finger smudges to title page and a few other leaves.

ONLY EDITION. Written by an unidentified author, this curious book describes ways to apply principles from logic and the natural sciences, such as hydrodynamics and optics, to legal practice. This is a scarce title. OCLC locates 3 copies in North American law libraries (LA County, University of Chicago, University of Pennsylvania). Not in Sweet & Maxwell.

BMC 8:18.

78. [Satire].

Contemporary paneled calf, raised bands and early hand-lettered title label (reading “Tracts”) to spine. Light rubbing to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, minor chip to head of spine, some chipping to edges of title label, corners bumped and somewhat worn. Moderate toning and light foxing to contents, margins of some pamphlets trimmed closely, just touching text in places, some leaves have light edgewear and dampspotting.

BASED ON THEIR VIEWPOINT, this rare collection of satirical pamphlets was probably compiled and later bound by a High Tory. They deal with political, legal and social matters. Several concern the War of the Spanish Succession [1701-1714]. Contents (excluding the three defective pamphlets):

2. [Arbuthnot, John]. Law is a Bottomless-Pit. Exemplified in the Case of The Lord Strutt, John Bull, Nicholas Frog, And Lewis Baboon. Who Spent All they Had in a Law-Suit (London, 1712). 16 pp. This edition not in BL.

A LAVISH LIMITED-EDITION BIOGRAPHY OF CHARLES I IN A RIVIERE BINDING

79. Skelton, Sir John. [1831-1897].

Charles I.

Contemporary blue morocco signed binding by Riviere & Son, gilt ornaments to boards, arms of Charles I at center of boards, gilt roses to corners, raised bands and gilt title, publication date and gilt roses to spine, all edges gilt, gilt rules to board edges, gilt inside dentelles, marbled endpapers. A few minor nicks and scratches to boards, light rubbing to extremities, light fading to spine and foot of front board, hinges starting, early armorial bookplates (Strathallan, Fairfax Rhodes) and later bookplate (Fairfax Rhodes Library) to front pastedown. Light toning to sections of text, offsetting from dentelles to free endpapers.

ONLY EDITION, from a limited set of 500 copies on Japan paper, this number 289. This lavishly illustrated biography was dedicated to Queen Victoria (“with her permission”). A lawyer by training, Sir John Skelton was a prolific author of legal and biographical works. The best-known of these were a series of biographical studies of Mary, Queen of Scots. The DNB notes that his biographical approach “displayed something of the spirit of the advocate.” Highly regarded as a man of letters, he also wrote several essays and reviews under the pseudonym “Shirley.”

THE SUBJECT’S RIGHT TO PETITION THE CROWN

80. [Somers, John, Baron (1651-1716), Attributed].

Jura Populi Anglicani: Or the Subject’s Right of Petitioning Set Forth. Occasioned by the Case of the Kentish Petitioners. With Some Thoughts on the Reasons Which Induc’d Those Gentlemen to Petition: And of the Commons Right of Imprisoning.

London: S.n., 1701. xiv, 15-64 pp. Quarto (8-1/4” x 6”).

Stab-stitched pamphlet bound into later paper-covered boards, printed paper label to spine. Light soiling to boards, some fading around edges and spine, corners and spine ends bumped, light edgewear to spine label. Light toning to interior, light soiling to title page and p. 64, cracks in text block between pp. x-xi and 18-19, a few leaves loosening, leaves C2-3 (pp. 19-22) detached, negligible faint dampstaining to foot of text block, upper corners of a few leaves lacking without loss to text, early corrections and annotations to pp. ix and 34.

FIRST EDITION, one of three issues, all printed in 1701. Somers, the great Whig jurist, was Lord Chancellor during the reigns of William and Mary and Queen Anne and the framer of the English Bill of Rights. A classic statement of Whig ideology, Jura Populi defends the commoner’s right to address grievances to the crown and the crown’s obligation to consider these grievances. It was reprinted in 1772.

81. [Statutes].

A Collection of Several Statutes and Clauses Now in Force, Relating to the Duties upon Spirits, Malt, Candles, Sope, Callicoes, Starch, Coffee, Tea, Chocolate, Glass, Coaches, And Tobacco. With an Abridgment of the Said Statutes and Clauses, And a Table of the Rate upon Several Commodities, Shewing by what Acts They are Imposed.

Recent period-style quarter morocco over cloth, raised bands, gilt title and blind and gilt fillets to spine, gilt publication date to foot of spine, endpapers renewed, recent owner bookplate (King Lawrence Parker) to front pastedown. Moderate toning and light foxing to interior, later owner stamp (I.S. Smith) to head of title page.

ONLY EDITION. Enhanced by an abridgment and an index, this digest collects the wide array of laws used to raise revenue through the taxation of popular consumer goods. The introduction of similar laws in the North American colonies, such as a tax on tea, helped to initiate the American Revolution. The collation of the Abridgement section of our copy differs from the ESTC record. Ours has 155 pages instead of 115. This is a rare title; OCLC and the ESTC locate 1 copy (National Library of Scotland). Its collation is identical to ours.

82. [Statutes].

A Collection of the Statutes Relating to the Admiralty, Navy, Ships of War, And Incidental Matters; To the Eighth Year of King George the Third.

London: Printed by Mark Baskett, Printer to the King’s Most Excellent Majesty; And by the Assigns of Robert Baskett, 1768. 8, 1017, [1] pp. Copperplate frontispiece vignette (of an anchor and maritime hardware). Quarto (9-3/4” x 7-1/2”).

Contemporary mottled calf, blind rules to boards, blind tooling to board edges, blind fillets along joints, raised bands, lettering pieces and gilt fillets to spine. Moderate rubbing to extremities, chipping to spine ends, joints starting at head, corners bumped and somewhat worn, recent owner bookplate (King Lawrence Parker) to front pastedown. Moderate toning to interior, light foxing in a few places, gradually diminishing minor stains to bottom edges of preliminaries and following few leaves of text. A handsome copy.

ONLY EDITION, one of two issues from 1768. Digested by topic and carefully indexed, this volume provides an astonishing amount of granular information about the mid-eighteenth century British Navy, merchant marine, Royal customs and related fields, such as marine insurance. One of the statutes is the epochal act (5 Geo III. C. 20) that recognized and rewarded John Harrison for his invention of the marine chronometer, the timepiece that enabled mariners to determine longitude.

83. [Statutes].

George I [1660-1727], King of Great Britain.

Anno Regni Georgii Regis Magnae Britanniae, Franciae, & Hiberniae, Quarto. At the Parliament Begun and Holden at Westminster, The Seventeenth Day of March, Anno Dom. 1714. In the First Year of the Reign of Our Sovereign Lord George, By the Grace of God, Of Great Britain, France, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c. And From Thence Continued by Several Prorogations to the Twenty First Day of December, 1717.

London: Printed by John Baskett, And by the Assigns of Thomas Newcomb, and Henry Hills, deceas'd, 1718.

Contemporary paneled calf, corner fleurons to boards, raised bands and gilt decoration to spine, lettering piece lacking, blind tooling to board edges, edges of text block speckled red. Light rubbing and a few small scratches and shallow scuffs to boards, chip to upper corner of front board, moderate rubbing to extremities, large chip to front joint, which is starting at ends along with rear joint, spine gilt mostly rubbed away, corners bumped and lightly worn, hinges cracked, faint offsetting to endleaves. Moderate toning to interior, occasional light foxing, light soiling in a few places.

A COLLECTION of fourteen acts passed in the third session of the fifth Parliament of Great Britain, with a table indexing the public acts and listing summaries of 25 private acts. Some of the more interesting acts include several dealing with taxation, trade and the military and “An Act for the further preventing Robbery, Burglary, and other Felonies, and for the more effectual Transportation of Felons, and Unlawful Exporters of Wooll; and for Declaring the Law upon some Points relating to Pirates.” The latter act, referred to as the Piracy Act or Transportation Act of 1717, was the first to successfully systematize penal transportation to North America for indentured service. It established terms of seven years for lesser felonies and fourteen for more serious crimes and allowed merchants and others to transport convicts under contract. Despite some complaints from local colonial governments, this system of transportation was deemed a success and thousands of men, women and children would be transported to the American colonies under the statute.

[London]: Tho. Berthelet Excudebat, [1538?]. XXVI ff. Folio (11-1/4" x 7-1/2").

Recent mottled calf over marbled boards, blind fillets to calf edges, gilt fillets and title to spine, endpapers added. Boards very slightly bowed, a few negligible scuffs to spine. Light toning to interior, faint dampstaining to bottom margin not affecting text, light foxing and soiling in a few places.

This early collection of twenty-eight acts from the twenty-sixth regnal year of Henry VIII includes the Act of Supremacy 1534, which declared King Henry and subsequent monarchs “the onely supreme heed in erthe of the church of Englannde.” It represented a complete break with Rome, asserting the independence of the Church of England and marking the beginning of the English Reformation. Also included is the Treasons Act of 1534, which made any disavowal of the Act of Supremacy a capital crime and would ultimately result in the execution of Sir Thomas More. 85. Theloall, Simon.

Le Digest des Briefes Originals, Et des Choses Concernants Eux.

Seventeenth-century calf, blind rules to boards, raised bands to spine, boards reattached. Moderate rubbing to boards, heavier rubbing to extremities with wear to spine ends and corners, small section lacking from center of spine, a few partial cracks to text block, Signature G (ff. 49-56) trimmed a little shorter than other signatures. Thoroughly annotated by a contemporary owner in Law French in a small, neat chancery hand, notes affected in places by trimming. Contemporary owner inscription to title page (Robbart), along with a few brief contemporary annotations, purchase date to verso of final leaf: “25 May 1580.” Preserved in a custom cloth clamshell box with printed paper title label.

First edition. Theloall’s Digest was the accepted register of correctly drafted writs. It owes its origin to the suggestion of Staunford that it would be a good idea if lawyers would write treatises on the other titles of the abridgments similar to his study of the Title “Prerogative.” Staunford illustrated his meaning by showing how the Title “Brief” might be treated. Theloall chose this title, and wrote a treatise on it for his own use. The manuscript, having been lent, eventually found its way to a printer. “It deserved to be printed, as it is the most orderly treatise on procedure, founded on the Year Books, that had yet appeared... Historically, it comes between the older commentaries upon writs and the modern books on procedure” (Holdsworth). A second edition was published in 1678. The work of a seasoned practitioner, the annotations in our copy are a collection of case references, cross references and glosses.

86. [Trial].
Bellingham, John [1769-1812], Defendant.

London: Printed for R. Mercer, 1812. [ii], 108 pp. Octavo (8” x 5-1/2”).

First edition. Disbound stab-stitched pamphlet. Moderate toning, light soiling to exterior, light foxing to title page and a few other leaves, small chip to bottom-edge of final leaf.

Only edition. Bellingham was motivated by a baseless claim that the Crown owed him money as compensation for time he served in a Russian prison. He believed he was owed compensation because the government did not try to assist him. His murder of Perceval was the only successful attempt on the life of a British Prime Minister. Hughes, W. Hughes, Editor.

“The Times” Testimonial: Report of the Trial of the Action, Bogle Versus Lawson, For a Libel Published in “The Times” London-Newspaper, Tried at the Summer Assizes for the Country of Surrey, Held at Croydon, Monday, August 16, 1841, Before the Right Honourable Sir Nicholas Conyngham Tindal, Knt. Lord Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, And a Special Jury; Together with the Proceedings of a Public Meeting of Merchants, Bankers and Others, Held at the Mansion House, London, Friday, October 1, 1841, On the Subject of Such Action, And of the Committee then Appointed; And Also a List of Subscribers to “The Times” Testimonial. Published by the Committee.

First edition. A sensational case of a million-pound plot to defraud Continental bankers by forged letters of credit, or lettres circulaires, purporting to have been issued by the bankers Glyn, Hallifax, Mills, & Co. The plot was exposed by a Times of London correspondent in a letter published on 26th May 1840. This case was important because it exposed the largely unregulated banking practices associated with letters of credit, which were easy to forge and difficult to police.

The naming of Allan George Bogle—who was almost certainly involved—triggered this libel action against John Joseph Lawson, the printer and publisher of the Times, and resulted in the award of one farthing damages for Bogle, but enormous expense and the considerable gratitude of bankers and investors for the Times. The present report is probably the most detailed account of a major financial swindle of this period, particularly one involving letters of credit.

A second edition was published the same year as the first, the third and final edition in 1842. All three are rare. OCLC locates 6 copies worldwide of the first edition, 2 in North America (Newberry Library, Temple University). Library Hub adds a copy at the Society of Antiquaries. This edition not in Kress, which lists the 3rd edition (C.5743).

[London: Printed and Published by William Mark Clark, (1849)]. 16 pp. $1,750.

Octavo (8” x 5”). Stab-stitched pamphlets bound in later three-quarter sheep over marbled boards, gilt fillets and lettering piece to spine, edges rouged, marbled endpapers, later bookplate of Thomas M. McDade to front pastedown. Light rubbing to extremities, front joint and hinges starting, brief annotation to verso of front free endpaper. Blank leaves added before and after text block, 48 pp. of contemporary newspaper clippings about the trial, one with brief annotations, pasted onto blank leaves at rear.
Light toning to interior, occasional light foxing, soiling and faint staining to top-edge of rear blank leaves, small tears to bottom-edge of leaf D5 (pp. 57-58) of Trial.

Only (stated) editions, each one of two 1849 issues. O'Connor, a domestic servant, was the former lover of Marie DeRoux Manning. He was murdered by Marie and her husband, Frederick George Manning. The motivation was greed; O'Connor was a successful moneylender and investor. The case attracted a good deal of public attention and became known as the "Bermondsey Horror." Eventually apprehended, the husband and wife were hanged on November 13, 1849. This execution was the first time a husband and wife had been executed together in England since 1700. Dickens witnessed the execution and wrote an account of it that was published in The Times. He based a character on Marie Manning, Mademoiselle Hortense, Lady Dedlock's maid in Bleak House.

This volume was owned by Thomas M. McDade [1907-1996], an FBI agent and author of the seminal bibliography of American homicides The Annals of Murder (1961). The account of the trial had two 1849 issues with different page counts (64 and 80 pp.). It was sometimes bound with the account of the pair's confession and execution from the same publisher, marketed as the appendix in this issue. The latter title is scarce. OCLC locates 3 copies in North American law libraries (Library of Congress, Harvard, Yale).

Incest and Murder in Edinburgh

89. [Trial].
Nairn, Katharine, Defendant.
Ogilvie, Patrick [d.1765], Defendant.

The Trial of Katharine Nairn and Patrick Ogilvie, For the Crimes of Incest and Murder. Containing the Whole Procedure of the High Court of Judiciary, Upon the 5th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, And 16th Days of August 1765. Edinburgh Printed: London: Reprinted, For T. Becket and P.A. de Hondt, 1765. [vii], 134 pp. Octavo (7-1/2" x 4-1/2"). $650.

Later library cloth, gilt title and publication date to spine, endpapers renewed. Light shelfwear, later owner bookplate (Stoughton R. Vogel) to front pastedown. Moderate toning to interior, page numbers affected in a few places by trimming, faint stain to pp. 40-41, soiling to half-title, “2” in early hand to heads of half-title and title pages, manuscript table of contents in early hand to foot of p. 134.

Only London edition, published the same year as the only Edinburgh edition. In January 1765, 19-year-old Katharine Nairn married 40-year-old Thomas Ogilvie. She soon fell in love with his younger brother, Patrick. In June the same year, Thomas Ogilvie died after a sudden illness. Katharine and Patrick were arrested and convicted of murder by poisoning. Patrick Ogilvie was hanged, but Katharine’s execution was delayed when she was found to be pregnant. Placed in a lower-security section of the prison, she took an opportunity to escape and fled to France. She was never apprehended. This case was the subject of a volume in the Notable British Trials series edited by William Roughead.

The Case of Henry Simons, A Polish Jew Merchant; And His Appeal to the Public Thereon. Now Publish'd, With the Tryal at Chelmsford, For the Benefit of Him and His Unhappy Family.

[BOUND WITH] [Ashley, James, Defendant].
[Simons, Henry, Plaintiff].

Octavo (7-3/4” x 4-1/2”). Stab-stitched pamphlets bound into recent cloth, calf lettering piece to spine. Light stains to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, small scuff to lettering piece, later owner.
bookplate (of Geoffrey G. Briggs) to front free endpaper. Moderate toning to both pamphlets, left-hand edge of plate, but not image, affected by trimming, light foxing and owner inscription (“Wm. Greenwood’s 1811”) to title page of The Case, tiny worm hole to lower-right corner of its text block through p. 91.

ONLY EDITIONS, Case and Appeal one of three issues. This was the first instance of a new trial being granted in a criminal case in England. The affair concerned the robbery of gold coins entrusted to Simons by a group of nobles from his home town. The case resulted in six trials, three pamphlets and a great deal of debate in the daily newspapers, much of it antisemitic. The thief appeared to have been Simons’s innkeeper, but it later turned out to be James Ashley, who was first convicted, then acquitted, then convicted again.

91. [Trials].

[AND] [Sixteen Trials and Essays Relating to Conspiracies Against the Crown]. $5,000.

Folio (12” x 7-1/2”). Eighteen pamphlets bound into contemporary paneled calf, rebacked in period style with raised bands and lettering piece. A few light scuffs to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, corners bumped and lightly worn, hinges mended. Moderate toning to text, somewhat heavier in places, light soiling to a few leaves. Large early owner signatures of the Earl of Dartmouth to front pastedown and title pages (or preceding blank) of each pamphlet, which are also numbered in his hand, some signatures and numbers affected by trimming, manuscript table of contents in his hand to front free endpaper, doodles to a few other leaves, later bookseller note laid in. A unique collection with an interesting provenance.

This Volume collects eighteen pamphlets relating to seventeenth-century plots against the English Crown, such as the Popish Plot, Rye House Plot and Tyrone’s Rebellion. Seven are trial accounts, four discuss trials, the others address background issues. Two titles are identified above; the others are (in short-titles): The Arraignment, Trials, Conviction of Sir Rich. Grahme, And John Ashton (1691, two parts, [iv], 76: 77-138 pp., ESTC R2450), The Arraignment, Tryal and Condemnation of Sir William Parkins (1696, [ii], 48 pp., ESTC R11595), The Arraignment, Tryal & Condemnation of Algernon Sidney (1684, [iv], 67 pp., ESTC R25434), The Late Lord Russel’s Case, With Observations Upon It (1686, [ii], 104 pp., ESTC R27391), The Tryals of Henry Cornish... And John Fernley, William Ring, And Elizabeth Gaunt (1685, [ii], 42 pp., ESTC R25662), The Character of an Ill-Court-Favourite: Representing the Mischiefs that Flow from Ministers of State (1681, 19, [i] pp., ESTC R3580), Grimalkin, Or, The Rebel-Cat: A Novell (1681, [ii], 13, [i] pp., ESTC R3023), A Speech Without Doors. Made by A Plebean to His Noble Friends (1681, 4 pp., ESTC R37582), The French Intrigues Discovered (1681, [ii], 31, [i] pp., ESTC R9404), Remarques Upon a New Project of Association (1682, 8 pp., ESTC R3820), The Oath and Covenant Signed by Several Members of the House of Commons (1681, 8 pp., Not in the ESTC or Wing, may be lacking a title page), The Proceedings Held at the Sessions of the Peace Held at Hicks-Hall (1682, [ii], 8 pp., ESTC R6287), The Great and Weighty Considerations, Relating to the Duke of York, Or Successor of the Crown...Considered (1680, [ii], 37, [i] pp., ESTC R20436), The Act of Parliament of the 27th. Of Queen Elizabeth, To Preserve the Queen's Person, And Protestant Religion, And Government (1679, [ii], 6 pp., ESTC R34890) and A Letter from a Gentleman of Quality in the Country to His Friend (1679, [ii], 18 pp., ESTC R9698). The binding style and manuscript hand date to the eighteenth century. However, the identity of “Dartmouth” is unclear. According to the laid-in note, the bookseller, H.W. Edwards, says he purchased this volume from “the Earl of Dartmouth’s library.” He may be referring to William Legge, 1st Earl of Dartmouth [1672-1750] or William Legge, 2nd Earl of Dartmouth. [1731-1810]. The 2nd Earl is remembered as a colonial administrator in the decades leading to the American Revolution. He was First Lord of Trade from 1765 to 1766 and Secretary of State for the Colonies and First Lord of Trade from 1772 to 1775.

A Fascinating Compendium of “Celebrated” Trials in a Handsome Binding

92. [Trials]. [Borrow, George H., Editor].

Celebrated Trials and Remarkable Cases of Criminal Jurisprudence from the Earliest Records to the Years 1825.

Later three-quarter morocco over marbled boards, gilt rules to boards, raised bands and gilt titles, ornaments, volume numbers and publication dates to spines, top-edges gilt, deckle fore and bottom-edges, marbled endpapers. Negligible light rubbing, minor wear to corners, front joint and hinge of Volume I just starting at ends. Light toning to interior, faint offsetting from plates, light foxing in a few places. A notably handsome set.

First Edition. The first collection devoted exclusively to important state and criminal trials, this set contains over four hundred cases from the fifteenth to nineteenth centuries. Regarding other collections, Borrow criticized the Newgate Calendar for being too sympathetic to its subjects; he found the State Trials to be intolerably dull. Borrow also includes famous trials from France, Sweden, Denmark and the United States. For France, he adapted trials from Causes Celebres to the tastes of “English reading” by stripping them “of all their verbosity.” In addition to its more animated language, Celebrated Trials is enlivened by its numerous engravings depicting courtroom scenes and executions (by various means).

WITH SIXTEEN HAND-COLORED PLATES, THREE BY GEORGE CRUIKSHANK

93. [Trials].
Moore, A.
[Cruikshank, George, Illustrator].
[Jenkins, J., Illustrator].

The Annals of Gallantry; Or, The Conjugal Monitor: Being a Collection of Curious and Important Trials for Divorces, And Actions of Crim. Con. During the Present Reign; Accompanied with Biographical Memoirs and Anecdotes, And Illustrated with Notes. London: Printed for the proprietors, And Sold by M. Jones, 1814-1815. Three volumes. 16 (of 18) hand-colored plates (2 bound as frontispieces), 2 uncolored plates (1 bound as a frontispiece). The three plates by Cruikshank, all in color, are present. Octavo (8” x 5”). $3,500.

Later signed Riviere morocco bindings, two volumes carefully rebacked retaining spines, gilt rules to boards, gilt spines with raised bands, gilt tooling to board edges, top edges gilt, gilt inside dentelles, colored endpapers, deckle fore and bottom edges, some signatures unopened, hinges of Volume I repaired. Some rubbing to extremities, corners of Volumes II and III bumped and somewhat worn, joints and hinges of Volume II starting, owner bookplate (of Marie L. Herrman) to front pastedown of each volume. Light toning to text, slightly heavier in places, a few leaves have faint offsetting from plates. A handsome set.

ONLY EDITION (in this form). The Annals of Gallantry was originally issued in 18 monthly parts from March 1, 1814 to August 1, 1815. It aimed to amuse and titillate. The accounts in these volumes are valuable nevertheless for their accurate reports and vivid background histories. What is more, this collection is a fascinating document of English social and legal attitudes toward adultery and divorce during the age of George IV and Jane Austen. The plates by Cruikshank, all in Volume I, are “Lady Grosvenor and the Duke of Cumberland Surprised by the Servant,” “The Unwelcome Intruders” and “The Elopement of Lady W---- with Lord Paget.”

As Also a Discourse Concerning the Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction in the Realm of England, Occasion’d by the Late Commission in Ecclesiastical Causes.

[AND] Langhorne, Richard [1624?-1679].

Considerations Touching the Great Question of the King’s Right in Dispensing with the Penal Laws. Written on the Occasion of His Late Blessed Majesties Granting Free Toleration and Indulgence.

Folio (12-1/2” x 7-1/4”). Contemporary paneled calf, rebacked in period style, raised bands, lettering piece, blind and gilt fillets and gilt author name to spine, gilt tooling to board edges, hinges mended. A few minor nicks, scuffs and stains to boards, moderate rubbing to board edges, corners bumped and somewhat worn, bookplate residue to front pastedown. Moderate toning to interior, soiling, faint dampstaining and spark burns to a few leaves, fore-edge of frontispiece of The Proceedings trimmed with minor loss to image, offsetting from frontispiece and early owner signature (Ph. Fiennes) to title page.

PROCEEDINGS AND TRIAL and Enquiry, first editions; Power and Considerations, only editions.
The four titles in this volume address some of the primary political and religious controversies that resulted in the Glorious Revolution. The first of these is an account of the so-called “Trial of the Seven Bishops.” One of the events that triggered the revolution, this case originated in the refusal of the archbishop of Canterbury and six bishops in 1688 to endorse James II’s reissue of Charles II’s Declaration of Indulgence, which suspended the penal laws against Catholics and dissenters. The seven were indicted for seditious libel, but acquitted to great public acclaim. The trial confirmed the subject’s right to petition the crown. It also reflected the antipathy of English Protestants towards Catholicism. A Catholic perspective is given by Langhorne’s Considerations, the final title in this volume, which defends the Declaration of Indulgence. The two works by Atkyns, most notably Power, are important arguments supporting Parliament’s authority. Enquiry claims the power to dispense laws is shared by monarchs and Parliament.

96. [Vaughan, Sir William (1577-1641)].

The Spirit of Detraction Coniured and Convicted in Seven Circles. A Worke Both Divine and Morall, Fit to be Perused by the Libertines of this Age, Who Endeauour by Their Detracting and Derogatorie Speeches, To Embezent Both the Glorie of God, And the Credit of Their Neighbours.

Handsome period-style calf, blind rules and small central gilt ornaments to boards, raised bands, blind fillets and lettering piece to spine, gilt rules to board edges, endpapers renewed (using old paper). Light browning to text, light soiling and a few small early pen marks to title page, repairs to lower corners of front free endpaper and title page. An appealing copy in an notably attractive binding.

ONLY EDITION, one of two issues, both from 1611. This is a treatise on slander and libel. As indicated by its title, its argument has a strongly theological cast. Vaughan, who held an LL.D. from Oxford, is known today for his moralistic writings and efforts to establish an English colony in Newfoundland. Both issues are rare. OCLC locates 6 copies of our issue, none in North America. The ESTC locates 7 more, 4 in North America (Boston Public Library, Folger Shakespeare Library, Harvard, New York Public Library).

97. Walthoe, John [1657?-1744], Bookseller.

A Catalogue of the Common and Statute Law-Books of This Realm, And Some Others Relating Thereunto, To Hilary Term, 1722. Alphabetically Digested Under Proper Titles. With an Account of the Best Editions, And Common Prices for Which They are Now Sold.

Contemporary sheep, blind rules to boards, blind fillets to spine, blind tooling to board edges. A few minor stains to boards, which are slightly bowed, moderate rubbing to extremities, front joint just starting at head, corners bumped and lightly worn. Moderate toning to interior, light foxing in places.

WALTHOE was a leading law bookseller in late-seventeenth and early eighteenth-century London. Arranged alphabetically by topic and based largely on the pioneering seventeenth-century catalogues of fellow bookseller Thomas Bassett, this catalogue lists books printed for Walthoe and titles he carries in stock or can acquire for clients. In all, Walthoe published six catalogues between 1714 and 1731. All are quite scarce. OCLC locates 6 copies of the 1722 edition, 1 in a law library (UT-Austin).

98. [Ward, Edward (1667-1731)].

Honesty in Distress; But Relieved by No Party. Giving an Account How She Went to Court, But was Scorned and Slighted; She Went Next to Westminster-Hall, Which Set the Lawyers in an Uproar; Then She Went to the City, Making Her Complaint to the Linen-Draper and Apothecary, Grocer and Hosier, Baker and Butcher, Vintner and Victualler, Pawnbroker, Usurer and Miller, And Found No Relief. Afterwards She Went to the Exchange Amongst the Merchants; But They Sent Her to the Priests, Who Said it was Enough for Them to Teach; Therefore They had No Relief for Her:- So Poor Honesty, Being Slighted by All, At Last Died a Miserable Death, For Want of Relief!!

Belper: Printed and sold (Wholesale and Retail) by S. Mason, 1810. 8 pp. Octavo (7” x 4-1/2”).

Disbound stab-stitched pamphlet. Moderate toning, occasional light soiling and very small stains. Rare.

LATER EDITION. Edward (Ned) Ward was a prolific satirist. “Though vulgar and often grossly coarse, his writings throw considerable light on the social life of the time of Queen Anne,” particularly the slang and vernacular of the time (DNB). Honesty in Distress, a dramatic work first published in 1705, portrays Honesty as a young woman seeking relief but spurned by all parties as a “mumping, ragged, idle Varlet” (among other epithets). Even by the eminent lawyers of Westminster Hall, she is dismissed as a “saucy slut” with “no business here.” Our 1810 edition from a Derbyshire press is unrecorded. No copies located on OCLC or Library Hub.

the Particulars of his First Exploit, And Adventures at Warwick with a Female Doctor; His First Appearance in London, Where he is Arrested by his Companion, And Lodged in the Compter, Where, By his Acuteness, Penetration, And Advice, He Gains
the Confidence of the Principal Thieves, Which Enables him to Hold Sway Over them for Many Years. His Curious Mode of Restoring Stolen Property; The Revenge he Took on a Cheesemonger, One of his Gang, Who had Deserted; Some Accounts of the Mint in Southwark, Formerly a Privileged Place for Debtors; Sets the Justice of his Country at Defiance for Many Years, Till Having Overreached Himself, He was Executed at Tyburn. Interspersed London: Printed by W. Lewis, Finch-Lane, for T. and J. Allman, 1829. 28 pp. Folding hand-colored frontispiece. Octavo (7-1/4" x 4-1/4"). $750.
Stab-stitched pamphlet in printed wrappers bound into three-quarter morocco over marbled boards, raised bands and gilt title and tooling to spine, marbled endpapers. Binding signed by “Tout” for Estes &
Lauriat of Boston, either the Victorian bookbinder Samuel Tout or the subsequent firm of Tout & Sons.
Light rubbing to extremities, corners bumped and lightly worn, monogram bookplate (“WHT”) to front pastedown. Light toning to interior, light foxing to wrappers, faint offsetting from frontispiece, which has two small clean tears along fold line. A very good copy.

A SCARCE EDITION of this popular account of the (low-) life of Jonathan Wild, the celebrated 18th-century underworld figure and criminal mastermind. He was notable for “recovering” stolen property and pocketing the rewards to fund his vast criminal empire, earning him the name “Thief-Taker General.” Wild’s career was both audacious and extraordinary, but eventually he hanged at Tyburn.
Wild’s exploits are extensively detailed in ODNB, who note that “his name had long been the property of satirists and pamphleteers. As Peachum in John Gay’s Beggar’s Opera (1728), or Henry Fielding’s Jonathan Wild the Great (1743), Wild... had become a byword for hypocrisy and corruption in high places, an illustration of the old dictum that great rogues prosper while little rogues hang.” This copy has a monogrammed bookplate reading “WHT,” possibly William Henry Tuthill, a bibliophile whose library was sold by Bangs & Co. in 1881. OCLC locates 3 copies (Princeton, Oxford, UNC-Chapel Hill).

[London: In Aedibus Thomae Wight & Bonhami Norton, 1599]. 40 ff. $10,000.

Contemporary calf, blind rules to boards, raised bands and blind fillets to spine, early repair near head of spine, “E:4” in early hand to fore-edge of text block. A few minor nicks, scuffs and stains to boards, moderate rubbing to extremities, corners bumped and lightly worn, pastedowns loose, armorial bookplate of Edmund Pollexfen Bastard to verso of front board, his signature to recto of front pastedown. Moderate toning to interior, faint dampstaining to upper-outside corner of text block, minor worming to head of text block of a few volumes, edgewear and light soiling to endleaves, brief annotations in early hand to several leaves, some slightly affected by trimming. An impressive complete collection.

IT IS DIFFICULT TO OVERESTIMATE the importance of the Year Books. As a series of notes on debates and points of pleadings in Norman England they are crucial primary sources for our knowledge of medieval common law. They also provide a richly detailed portrait of contemporary English life, customs and manners. The origin of the Year Books is unknown. Some scholars believe the earliest volumes were notes transcribed by law students for study. Others maintain they were made by lawyers to use in practice. Though it is not known when the first manuscript volumes were compiled, the cases date from the 1270s to 1535.

William de Machlinia issued the first printed editions between 1481 and 1482. The issues in our volume belong to the so-called “Quarto Edition.” Not a set or edition in the conventional sense, these volumes were issued separately with various dates and impressions between 1522 and 1619. The annotations to our volume, brief glosses, case citations and references to other Year Books, indicate detailed review by an early reader and demonstrate the utility of the Year Books to scholars and practitioners. Bastard [1784-1838] was a Tory politician who sat in the House of Commons from 1812 to 1830.

The Saint Petersburg School of International Law
A Bio-Bibliographical Study
(Petrine Russia to the 1920s)

W. E. BUTLER
V. S. IVANENKO

B A S E D O N U N P R E C E D E N T E D U S E of archival sources in St. Petersburg and the United States, this encyclopedic treatise is dedicated to the individuals associated with the development of international legal doctrine and state practice for two centuries in the capital of the Russian Empire. Well over four hundred are identified and the contributions of principal figures are summarized or critiqued. St. Petersburg University, which celebrated its 300th anniversary in 2024, is the key institution, but others played a role. The contributions of each are examined.

The “St. Petersburg School” is broadly construed to encompass jurists and international legal practitioners whose contact with the capital was brief, but nonetheless documented. The ethnic origins of the St. Petersburg international legal community are impressive in their diversity: Russians, Ukrainians, Belorussians, Georgians, Moldovans, Poles, Estonians, Latvians, Lithuanians, Baltic Germans, Jews, and Hungarians, augmented by individuals from Scandinavian and Western European countries. Extensive bibliographical references, as well as photographs of 60 of the lawyers, enrich the existing corpus of contributions by St. Petersburg to international legal doctrine.

William E. Butler has written extensively on the history of international law, including as the editor and translator of V. E. Grabar, The History of International Law in Russia 1647–1917 (Oxford, 1990); the two-volume F. F. Martens, Contemporary International Law of Civilized Peoples (Clark, NJ, 2021–2022); and author of Grotius on War and Peace in English Translation (Clark, NJ, 2021). He is the founding editor of Jus Gentium: Journal of International Legal History (2016–). The John Edward Fowler Distinguished Professor of Law, Penn State Dickinson Law, he is also Professor Emeritus of Comparative Law in the University of London (University College London) and Foreign Member, Russian Academy of Natural Sciences, National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine, and National Academy of Legal Sciences of Ukraine.

Vitalii S. Ivanenko has published extensively on the history of international law in Russia with particular reference to St. Petersburg, most especially the monumental Санкт-Петербургская школа международного права [St. Petersburg School of International Law] (2019; 2d ed. 2022; 3d ed. 2024) in two volumes. He held positions as senior lecturer, docent, professor, Head of the Chair of International Law, and Pro-Rector for Scientific Work at universities in Baranul and St. Petersburg before, in 1995, becoming Docent at St. Petersburg State University, serving from 1999 to 2011 as Head of the Chair of International Law there.
